VICTOR SAVAGO (L) AND LOSER BELL

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

By 15 delegates votes, Peter J. Savago won over H. Clark Bell in the contest over the GOP state assembly nomination.

The action was the highlight of the unofficial Ulster County Republican convention held at George Washington School last night.

The battle for the assembly nomination had been waged ever since outgoing Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson announced he would not seek the post again. Wilson's declaration became known on Feb. 26, and it was on that day that Savago made known his intentions of seeking the nomination.

Bell announced one week later.

Other candidates who later dropped out were William D. Brinnier of Saugerties and Lawrence A. Quilly of Kingston.

It was actually the City of Kingston delegation with its 48 votes that put Savago over the top. It went for the chairman of the county legislature with 30 of its votes. Bell collected 18 delegate votes from the city group.

The final count was Savago 129, Bell 114.

In his acceptance speech, the New Paltz insurance man referred to his Florida vacation, taken right after he announced his intentions of running, when he said, "We had a 10-day disadvantage."

The legislative leader declared, "Those who voted against us — come into our camp. We hold no animosity. We need a united Republican party.

The assembly nominating speeches, and the roll call of the town delegations took up most of the convention time, but the machinery of the nomination came under fire several times when individual roll calls were demanded of several delegations, and parliamentary procedure itself was challenged.

Republican Chairman John B. Sterley, with the backing of County Attorney Abram F. Molyneux, ruled that certain Kingston delegates, including Legislator Melvin Mones, could vote as representatives of districts that they did not live in.

According to Bell partisans, the parliamentary logic set down by the county chairman meant that a Wawarsing delegate could vote with the Lloyd delegation, or that Woodstock committeemen could vote with Saugerties.

The procedure apparently benefited Savago, but in that only a reported five votes were in question, the legislative chairman would still have captured the nomination.

When asked if he would continue the battle into a primary, attorney Bell said he could not answer that question "at this time."

He pointed out, however, that the wards he carried in the City of Kingston "represented 54 per cent of registered Republicans in the city."

Bell said, "There are (approximately) 240 people here at the convention. There are some 30,000 Republicans in the county."

In other convention action, Hamilton Fish Jr., received the Ulster County endorsement for Congress in the 28th district; Jay P. Rolison Jr., was renominated for the state senate from the 99th district, and Thomas R. Mayone, special investigator for the district attorney's office, received the nomination for Ulster County Sheriff. Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties received the nod for county coroner.

Fish told the convention, "Our nation is in trouble after years of Democratic failure. War and civil disorder divide our people. Higher taxes and fear of inflation is real and present for every American. We are falling behind in jobs and housing for our people."

The 42-year-old Millbrook attorney declared, "An administration lacking the confidence of the people cannot lead."

Asked later why he believed he lost to Democratic Congressman Joseph Y. Yesnick in 1966, Fish replied, "There was a Resnick publicity bombardment for a year and a half. The people weren't used to that."

"He also associated himself with local issues, primarily in Dutchess (County). Then there was the matter of a long bruising primary (between Fish and Alexander "Sam" Aldrich for the GOP nomination for congress."

Fish also believed the Ellenville Democrat "saved up lots of ammunition for the last few weeks," and he referred specifically to the well-publicized Lunni adoption case.

Labor Strong for Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has won promises of solid labor support for his re-election and left little doubt he intends to seek another term.

"We do intend to stand here as long as we can stand here," he said Monday night, "and fight for what is right."

Johnson dropped the hint on his political plans during an unannounced visit to the second annual Farm Policy and Rural Life conference in a speech filled with homespun humor.

He told the farmers they had mastered the hardest skill of all: "You know how to make hay in Washington."

The promises of labor support came earlier at a legislative conference of several thousand AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades delegates.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said the 14-million-member labor federation will support Johnson for re-election despite his Vietnam war policy critics.

"I don't think we're going to turn our back on a friend," Meany said. "Labor will discharge its obligations."

In other political developments: —Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy told a crowd of more than 15,000 at Madison, Wis., his Democratic presidential candidacy is no longer simply a protest against President Johnson's policies.

"We are seeking the presidency of the United States," McCarthy said and hundreds stood and cheered.

Meany sharply criticized presidential candidates campaigning against Johnson's Vietnam policies.

"Of course they are going to focus on the war that nobody wants," Meany said. He urged Americans "to let Hanoi know they can't win at the ballot box in this country what they can't win in Asia."

Johnson defended his "Great Society" programs at the labor convention and the farm program he sent to Congress last month at the farm conference.

"We did make progress," Johnson told the labor group, in helping millions of Americans rise from poverty, providing medical care for the elderly and bringing better jobs at higher pay for workers.

"These are the mighty foundations that we have put into place," he said, "and we are not going to sit by and let them be torn down in a partisan, political election year."

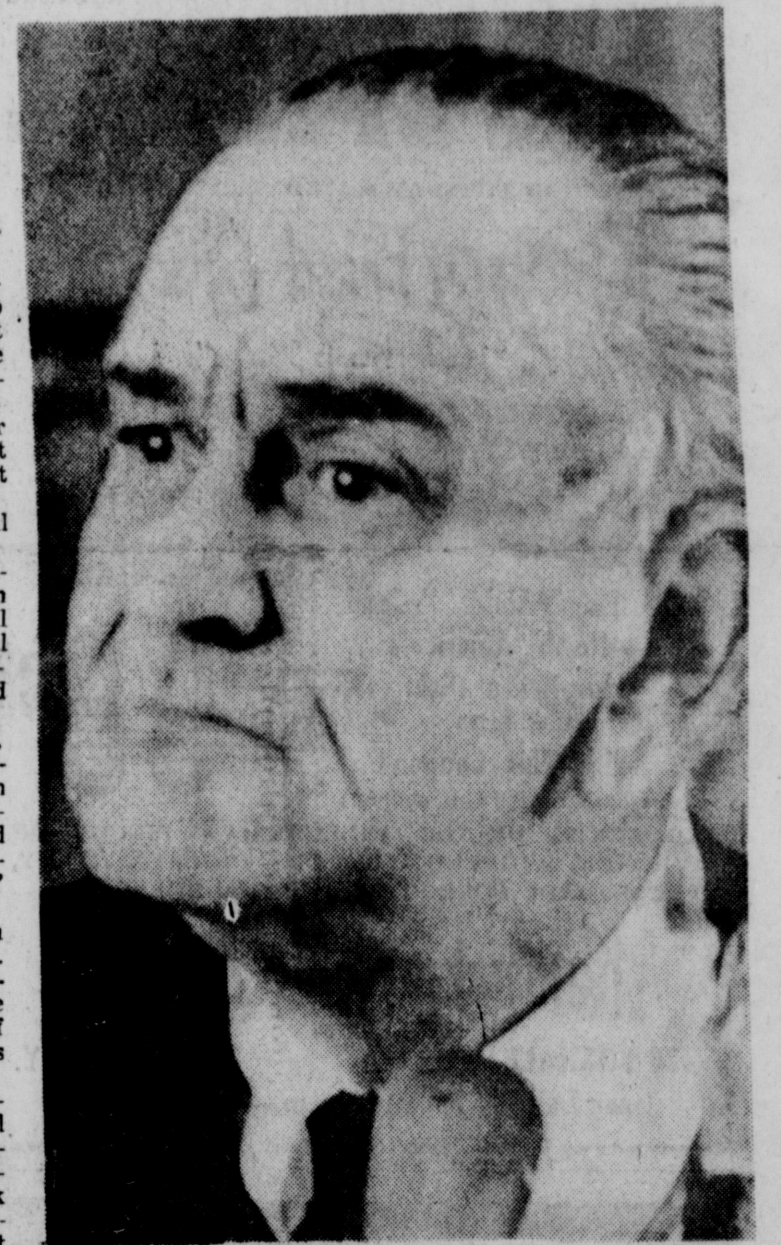

"I'm not saying you never had it so good," the President said, "but that is a fact, isn't it?"

Elsewhere on the political scene: —California Gov. Ronald Reagan said he doubts Nixon can lock up the GOP presidential nomination before the national convention because many Republicans still are concerned about Nixon's electability.

—An effort in Washington, D.C., to pool Kennedy and McCarthy forces into a common anti-Johnson front has been disavowed by McCarthy. He said the coalition could be misconstrued as an "arrangement" for Kennedy's campaign.

—McCarthy's new California campaign manager, Sanford A. (Sandy) Weiner, said the Minnesotan's campaign in the state will be geared to charges of "bully and strongarm" tactics by Kennedy forces.

—New York City Mayor Lindsay predicted Rockefeller will be the GOP presidential nominee despite his refusal to campaign. Said Lindsay: "I think there's an answer to the Republican dilemma, and I'm not going to give up on it, and that's Nelson Rockefeller."

Fierce Battle in Highlands

SAIGON (AP) — Nearly 1,000 North Vietnamese troops, armed with flame-throwers and rocket-propelled grenades, attacked an American artillery base in the central highlands of South Vietnam today.

The attack touched off the heaviest fighting on that critical front in four months.

The U. S. military command said 121 enemy soldiers had been killed so far in the battle. U. S. casualties were not immediately disclosed.

Near Saigon, allied forces pushed through rice paddies and hedgerows pursuing a battered Viet Cong force that broke off a sharp 24-hour battle shortly before dawn. The Viet Cong death toll was put at 284.

The U. S. Command said 10 U. S. soldiers were killed and 71 wounded in the fighting. South Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

The attack in the central highlands was launched under the cover of darkness by two or three North Vietnamese battalions against an artillery support base of the U. S. 4th Infantry Division 19 miles west of Kontum City.

Headquarters said the North Vietnamese troops, operating only 20 miles from their Cambodian border sanctuary, stormed the 500 American defenders and drove through a portion of the perimeter.

Four hours later, headquarters said, U. S. infantrymen had pushed the enemy troops back and restored their defense line.

The North Vietnamese began withdrawing toward Cambodia as dawn broke and American reinforcements poured in. Air cavalrymen made a helicopter assault into the battle zone in an attempt to block the enemy's withdrawal.

Tactical fighter-bombers and 155mm howitzers pounded the North Vietnamese.

It was the heaviest fighting in the central highlands since last November's 21-day battle for Dak To, 5 miles north of Kontum. Kontum City was hard hit by enemy troops during the Viet Cong lunar offensive Jan. 30.

U. S. 4th Division infantrymen went into the city to clear it out. According to intelligence reports, four North Vietnamese regiments—about 12,000 troops—threaten the Kontum City-Dak To area.

The heavy fighting near Saigon was touched off before dawn Monday when the Viet Cong attacked two South Vietnamese outposts 28 miles northwest of the capital and infiltrated the marketplace of a district town called Trang Bang and a nearby hamlet. One outpost protecting the district town was overrun. The second held.

The Viet Cong also tried to block allied relief forces from two sides, attacking U. S. armored columns to the northwest and the northeast en route to reinforce the beleaguered town and its outposts.

Trang Bang is the biggest district town between Saigon and the Cambodian border to the west. It sits along Route 1, the national highway leading from Saigon to the border and is a commercial center for traffic to Cambodia.

The fighting was the biggest single action of the Quyet Thang—Resolved to Win—offensive launched 16 days ago. The Viet Cong toll raised to 2,008 the total number of enemy troops reported killed.

U. S. losses for the same period were put at 73 dead and 609 wounded, and South Vietnamese casualties at 89 dead and 231 wounded.

In the air war, the U. S. Command announced that swinging F-111s, the newest American warplanes, flew their first combat mission Monday. The radar-guided, supersonic jets flew from Ta Khu, Thailand, in

RFK Taboo in Greece

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek regime today ordered a crackdown to limit news on the activities of U. S. Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N. Y.

The censor's office barred the use in Greek newspapers of any photographs of Kennedy, who is bidding for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Czechs to Elect

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak National Assembly will meet Saturday to elect a president to replace Antonin Novotny, the old guard veteran who stepped down last Friday after months of pressure from new liberal leaders.

Informed sources said the election date was fixed today at a meeting of the parliament's presidium. The sources said they did not know how many candidates would be in contention.

Volpe Tours Flooded Lee

LEE, Mass. (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe planned a tour of flood-ravaged Lee today as probes began into the cause of an earthen dam collapse which sent a 10-foot wall of water churning through the town.

The flash flood drowned two persons and caused an estimated $15 million in property damage.

The governor Monday asked the Small Business Administration to declare the Berkshire County Community a disaster area so its residents could qualify for low-cost loans to help them rebuild their homes and businesses.

For Candidate Kennedy:

The Long and Torturous Campaign Road

Editors' note: Robert F. Kennedy has spent a week on that long torturous trail he hopes to follow to the White House. Here is a look at the candidate, on the stump and off it, during a week of trials and triumphs.

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

He sits at the back of the bus that roars through the night along a highway in upstate New York, and he sings softly, lazily, off-key to a tune strummed by a young guitarist.

Key figures in the state's strife-ridden Democratic party are less alone in other seats as Robert Francis Kennedy rolls up his shirt-sleeves and relaxes.

He bites the tip from a long, tapered cigar and fills the back of the overhauled bus with his pungent aroma.

"Do you know 'We Shall Overcome?' he asks. "Or is that through the crowd."

The young guitarist doesn't know it, but he tries, and Kennedy, at the end of a dreary night in the first week of his campaign for the Democratic nomination, sings softly.

The South Boston Irish crowd turns out under gray wet skies to yell and laugh and wave. The Kennedy brothers, Bobby and Teddy, are marching in the St. Patrick's Day Parade.

"I think we can do it if we make the big pull," Robert earnestly tells Edward, who looks dubious.

The candidate is crushed by the crowd. The smile is fixed on his face, and he is seemingly unconcerned about the physical danger.

But his aides are sweating and nervous and gasping for breath and they form a tight ring around him and push him through the crowd.

The people slap him on the head and pull his hair and touch his coat and scream his name and yell for autographs although he can barely lift his arm.

His hair tousled into a mop, his expensive suit rumpled, his shirt-sleeves stained by sweat, he climbs atop the back seat of an open car and waves to the throngs pressing about him. He says, very softly "midst the din."

"Hello. How are you? Thank you." And the people squeal and run along side and jump up and down.

His California campaign manager, Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, tells him, "You know, this is better than President Kennedy got in California at the end of the 1960 campaign."

"Yes," says Robert Kennedy, waving and smiling.

He has gags that he polishes and repeats as the campaign rolls along.

"My brother Teddy ordered 10,000 Kennedy buttons for us to bring here. But they all have his face on them. I told him he couldn't enter the race at this late date. That would be ruthless."

The bus rolls through the New York night. Already two hours late for a Democratic dinner, the candidate becomes impatient as the bus stops at each county line to change sheriff escorts.

"Can't we just go on?" he says to no one in particular. "My God, I just got in late this morning and I've got to be up early in the morning. Do we have to wait for the sheriff?"

The bus finally arrives at its destination, a "pavilion" in a New York hamlet named Johnson City. The Democrats have long since eaten their testimonial dinner and have been drinking hard: Kennedy is so late that a reincarnation of Franklin D. Roosevelt couldn't bring the crowd to life.

It is nearly midnight. The candidate, like his listeners, is tired and speaks listlessly. Nonetheless, as Ted Sorensen bravely introduces them, one New York politician after another groans laboriously through his prepared recital.

"They've eaten all the food; Kennedy gets no dinner; there will be sandwiches on the bus. He speaks, waves and goes back to the bus. It will be 5 a.m. before he gets to bed for two hours' sleep."

Was it worth it? "I have to carry my own state," he says. "I had to make the effort to show it was important enough for me to be here. You just have to do it."

U. S. senator is expected to have no challengers from within his party.

At the same time, the committee also will nominate Judge Adrian P. Burke of Manhattan for reelection to the Court of Appeals. Although Burke is a Democrat, he is expected to benefit from the custom of major political parties to endorse incumbent judges for reelection, without regard to political allegiance.

Since Rockefeller men control the state committee, it appears virtually certain that, the resolution will be adopted.

The other big business on the committee agenda will be the nomination of U. S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits for a third term. Schoenbeck said Rockefeller would offer Javits' name in nomination. The state's senior

RFK Taboo in Greece

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek regime today ordered a crackdown to limit news on the activities of U. S. Sen. Robert Kennedy, D-N. Y.

The censor's office barred the use in Greek newspapers of any photographs of Kennedy, who is bidding for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Czechs to Elect

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak National Assembly will meet Saturday to elect a president to replace Antonin Novotny, the old guard veteran who stepped down last Friday after months of pressure from new liberal leaders.

Informed sources said the election date was fixed today at a meeting of the parliament's presidium. The sources said they did not know how many candidates would be in contention.

Volpe Tours Flooded Lee

LEE, Mass. (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe planned a tour of flood-ravaged Lee today as probes began into the cause of an earthen dam collapse which sent a 10-foot wall of water flooding through the town.

The flash flood drowned two persons and caused an estimated $15 million in property damage.

The governor Monday asked the Berkshire County Community a disaster area so its residents could qualify for low-cost loans to help them rebuild their homes and businesses.

For Candidate Kennedy:

The Long and Torturous Campaign Road

Editors' note: Robert F. Kennedy has spent a week on that long torturous trail he hopes to follow to the White House. Here is a look at the candidate, on the stump and off it, during a week of trials and triumphs.

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAIT

He sits at the back of the bus that roars through the night along a highway in upstate New York, and he sings softly, lazily, off-key to a tune strummed by a young guitarist.

Key figures in the state's strife-ridden Democratic party are less alone in other seats as Robert Francis Kennedy rolls up his shirtsleeves and relaxes. He bites the tip from a long, tapered cigar and fills the back of the overheated bus with its pungent aroma.

"Do you know 'We Shall Overcome?' he asks. "Or is that passe?"

The young guitarist doesn't know it, but he tries, and Kennedy, at the end of a dreary night in the first week of his campaign for the Democratic nomination, sings softly.

The South Boston Irish crowd turns out under gray wet skies to yell and laugh and wave. The Kennedy brothers, Bobby and Teddy, are marching in the St. Patrick's Day Parade.

"I think we can do it if we make the big pull," Robert earnestly tells Edward, who looks dubious.

Th. candidate is crushed by the crowd. The smile is fixed on his face, and he is seemingly unconcerned about the physical danger.

But his aides are sweating and nervous and gasping for breath and they form a tight

ring around him and push him through the crowd.

The people slap him on the head and pull his hair and touch his coat and scream his name and yell for autographs although he can barely lift his arm.

His hair tousled into a mop, his expensive suit rumpled, his shirtsleeves stained by sweat, he climbs atop the back seat of an open car and waves to the throngs pressing about him. He says, very softly, "Thank you."

And the people yodel and run along side and jump up and down.

His California campaign manager, Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, tells him, "You know, this is better than President Kennedy got in California at the end of the 1960 campaign."

"Yes," says Robert Kennedy, waving and smiling.

He has gags that he polishes and repeats as the campaign rolls along.

"My brother Teddy ordered 10,000 Kennedy buttons for us to bring here. But they all have his face on them. I told him he couldn't enter the race at this late date. That would be ruthless."

The bus rolls through the New York night. Already two hours late for a Democratic dinner, the candidate becomes impatient as the bus stops at each county line to change sheriff escorts.

"Can't we just go on?" he says to no one in particular. "My God, I just got in late this morning and I've got to be up early in the morning. Do we have to wait for the sheriff?"

The bus finally arrives at its destination, a "pavilion" in a New York hamlet named Johnstown City. The Democrats have long since eaten their testimonial dinner and have been drinking hard; Kennedy is so late that a reincarnation of Franklin D. Roosevelt couldn't bring the crowd to life.

It is nearly midnight. The candidate, like his listeners, is tired and speaks listlessly.

Nonetheless, as Ted Sorensen bravely introduces them, one New York politician after another groans laboriously through his prepared recital.

"They've eaten all the food; Kennedy gets no dinner; there will be sandwiches on the bus. He speaks, waves and goes back to the bus. It will be 5 a.m. before he gets to bed for two hours' sleep."

"Was it worth it?"

"I have to carry my own effort to show it was important enough for me to be here. You just have to do it."

U. S. senator is expected to have no challengers from within his party.

Since Rockefeller men control the state committee, it appears virtually certain that the resolution will be adopted.

The other big business on the committee agenda will be the nomination of U. S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits for a third term. Schoenck said Rockefeller would offer Javits' name in nomination. The state's senior

U. S. senator is expected to have no challengers from within his party.

At the same time, the committee also will nominate Judge Adrian P. Burke of Manhattan for reelection to the Court of Appeals. Although Burke is a Democrat, he is expected to benefit from the custom of major political parties to endorse incumbent judges for reelection, without regard to political allegiance.

Hearing Set For Memorial Day Closings

Regulations, exceptions and penalties embodied in the proposed Local Law to regulate commercial and business activities on Memorial Day to be outlined at a public hearing Thursday 7:30 p. m. in the legislator's rooms were revealed today.

The preamble of the proposed local law notes:

The legal holiday, known as Memorial Day should be set apart for rest, repose and patriotic observance and certain acts to be specified and deemed serious interruptions and desecrations are prohibited.

All labor and trades relating to commercial and business activities on Memorial Day are prohibited excepting that when the same are work of necessity or charity, they may be performed on that day in their usual and ordinary manner so as not to interfere with the patriotic observance of that day.

All manner of public selling or offering for sale of and goods and/or personal property is prohibited except when the same is consistent with Memorial Day except as follows:

a. Articles of food herein after specified may be sold, served, supplied and delivered at any time before 10 a. m. and after 5 p. m.

b. Cooked and prepared foods may be sold, served, supplied and delivered by delicatessen dealers, bakers and grocers.

c. Fresh fruits, vegetables and other farm products may be sold, served, supplied and delivered by farmers markets or road-side stands at any time of the day.

d. Bread, milk, eggs, soda water, ice, fruit, confectionery, flowers, tobacco products, newspapers, magazines, souvenirs, gasoline, oil, tires, drugs, medicines and surgical instruments may be sold, served, supplied and delivered.

e. Meals, including meals served by caterers, may be sold to be eaten on the premises where sold or served.

f. Alcoholic beverages may be sold, served, supplied and delivered by persons, partners or corporations holding licenses and/or permits issued under the provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law of the State of New York in accordance with the hours fixed by the New York State Liquor Authority.

All advertising such as "Special Memorial Day Sale" or other sales promotion methods which detract from and/or desecrate the true purpose, significance and observance of Memorial Day shall be prohibited. The provisions of this Section shall apply to all business establishments including those establishments permitted to remain open as provided in this law.

Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 2 which allow certain business establishments to remain open, all business establishments, including those hereinbefore mentioned in Section 2 of this law, excepting those regulated by the New York State Liquor Authority, shall close or cease to operate during the holding of public memorial services honoring the war dead held in their respective village, town or city. The only exception to this section shall be the existence of an emergency situation or condition.

Flim-Flammers Flight Is Flop

A female flim-flam operator's share with her $100,000 of "found" money. When the flight to avoid prosecution flopped last night when FBI agents arrested Yvette Marie Wilson, 29, of New York City in Carteret, N. J.

The Wilson woman is one of two flim-flam operators who allegedly fleeced a Beacon woman out of $7,700 in February.

She was to appear before a U.S. commissioner today. The case came to the attention of Beacon police February 28 after the son of the victim, Mrs. Antonia Mendes, about 83, of Beacon, reported the theft.

Police Chief Samuel Woods said at the time that Mrs. Mendes was approached on the street by two smooth talking, well dressed young women who eventually were able to convince her to withdraw $6,000 from her bank account and take $1,700 in cash from her home as an indication of "good faith." They allegedly promised to

The Wilson woman, who became the object of a police search throughout the Hudson Valley, was apprehended within 24 hours. The second young woman is still being sought according to Beacon city police.

Million Dollar For Area Bingo

Bingo players in a five-county 28th District and Orange County spent more than $1.1 million in 37,033 games from April 1 to Sept. 1, 1967, according to a recent report by the State Bingo Control Commission.

Counties in the 28th include Ulster, Dutchess, Schoharie, Greene and Columbia.

During that period in Ulster County there were 5,636 games played by a total of 33,518 persons who spent $158,667 and received prizes worth $114,175. The profit for the nine bingo operating sites was $37,589.

Orange County was by far the most popular bingo county with 13,856 games, 70,058 players spending a total of $497,897 and receiving $300,712 in prizes. Dutchess County had 8,166 games which attracted 52,053 players who spent $272,126 and won $190,882 in prizes. These figures do not include those organizations conducting limited period bingo which was legalized in July of 1964.

Home Entered

A break-in at the summer home of Heil Berrone at Rosendale Heights was reported Monday to Ulster County Sheriff's Office.

Berrone, a resident of Woodside, L. I., reported that his summer home had been entered and a record player, records and a movie projector are missing. County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Office is investigating. The time of the entry could not be determined.

The Appeals Still Pour From N. Korea

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea continued today to release appeals it said were written by crewmen of the captured USS Pueblo, but the parents of one crewman said the letter they received wasn't phrased they way their son talks.

In Niles, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Rogala agreed the letter was in the handwriting of their son, Seaman Appren, Richard J. Rogala.

But Rogala noted that his son referred four times to the "Democratic People's Republic of Korea."

"Now I know he wouldn't talk about North Korea that way unless he was made to do so," Rogala said.

He also was puzzled over a statement in the letter that the Pueblo was "exactly 7.6 miles from their (Korea's) coast" when the ship and its 82 crewmen were captured Jan. 23.

"How would he know exactly how far the ship was from the Korean coast unless someone told him and made him write it down?" Rogala asked.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency—KCNA—released the text of letters attributed to Seaman Rogala Sunday, along with letters attributed to Lawrence William Mack of Detroit.

KCNA quoted Mack as telling U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Gov. George Romney of Michigan that the Pueblo "was captured intact with secret and top secret documents and materials plus logs and charts detailing its espionage activities."

The agency broadcast five more letters today, bringing to 28 the number of what it has described as appeals by the Pueblo crewmen for the U.S. government to accept North Korean terms to win release for the crew. The North Koreans claim the Pueblo was spying in their territorial waters. They demand an apology and a promise of no spying against them in the future.

Mid-Week Lenten Service

Comforter Church

What Shall I Do With Jesus? will be the sermon topic of the Rev. John W. Mongin, pastor, at Comforter Reformed Church, Wynkoop Place, Thursday 7 p. m.

Trinity Lutheran

A film presentation, Part Four of the Words From the Cross—Security, will be a feature of the Wednesday 7:30 p. m. service at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone Streets. The Rev. Frederick C. Dunn, pastor, will conduct the services of vespers after the film. A coffee and fellowship hour will be held in the church hall after the service.

Old Dutch

A family night Lenten dinner will be held at Old Dutch Church's Bethany Hall 6:30 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool will present the program on Parable. The church office may be contacted for reservations.

Redeemer Church

The regular midweek Lenten service at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers Street will be held on Wednesday 7:30 p. m., conducted by the pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise, DD, assisted by Russell F. Anderson. The meditation on the theme, Who? Me? will be given by the pastor.

Following the service an informal discussion over coffee will be held in the assembly room on the topic, My Congregation's Equipment. Another in a series led by layman of the church, George E. Schmidt, a member of the Parish Education Committee, will be the leader this week.

Scientist Visits

Huston K. Myers, junior scientist at Roswell Park Memorial Institute Cancer Research Center, Buffalo, spent last week visiting the nine school districts in Ulster County to present a program on Cigarette Smoking Education. This visit was arranged and sponsored by the Ulster County SNT Association in the hope of impressing students with the dangers involved in cigarette smoking. Colored slides illustrated the lecture.

Union Service

The fifth Lenten midweek supper and program in the 1968 series involving the congregations of Fair Street Reformed Church and St. James Methodist Church will be held at 6:30 p. m. in the parish room of the Fair Street Church this Wednesday. Following the general theme of The Church in Retrospect, the guest speaker this week will be the Rev. Peter Stehnach of St. Gregory's Orthodox Catholic Church in Wappingers Falls, New York. He will speak on The Orthodox Tradition.

The Rev. Mr. Stehnach, a native of Conemagh, Pa. is a graduate of Columbia University and St. Vladimir Theological Academy, New York City and also a graduate of Tufts College. Prior to his academic career he served 10 years in the United States Navy. In 1963 he was ordained to the priesthood and remained at the seminary as a disciplinarian until in August 1964, he was assigned as missionary priest to the newly organized parish in Wappingers Falls. In October 1966 he received his Monastic tonsure and was given the name Pitirini. The Rev. Mr. Stehnach has also been instrumental in organizing The Orthodox Chapel in The West Point Military Academy where he serves twice a month. At both St. Gregory's and the Academy Chapel, services are conducted in English, hence the name of the particular tradition is called The American Orthodox Church.

The program is open to any interested person in the community and begins after the conclusion of the covered dish supper, at 7:30 p. m. A separate program is provided for the youth, which includes the color-film Voice of the Deep. Baby sitting is also available.

Jury Clears Upstate Man Of Arson Deaths

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A Schenectady County Court jury cleared a 69-year-old man early today of a murder charge stemming from a fire in which four persons perished here last June.

John W. Johnson, of Candor, southeast of Ithaca, was acquitted by an all-male jury that deliberated beyond midnight.

He had been accused of starting a fire in a three-story, brick and frame building on June 19. Four died when the flames spread through the structure, trapping the victims on the upper floors.

The prosecution contended Monday that a suitcoat, from which a bus ticket purchased in Ithaca June 19 was taken, had been planted in Johnson's car while it was held in the city garage. The defense argued that Johnson had come to Schenectady the day after the fire.

Home Entered

A break-in at the summer home of Heli Berrone at Rosendale Heights was reported Monday to Ulster County Sheriff's Office.

Berrone, a resident of Woodside, L. I., reported that his summer home had been entered and a record player, records and a movie projector are missing. County Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Sheriff's Office is investigating. The time of the entry could not be determined.

The Appeals Still Pour From N. Korea

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea continued today to release appeals it said were written by crewmen of the captured USS Pueblo, but the parents of one crewman said the letter they received wasn't phrased they way their son talks.

In Niles, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Rogala agreed the letter was in the handwriting of their son, Seaman Appren. Richard J. Rogala.

But Rogala noted that his son referred four times to the "Democratic People's Republic of Korea."

"Now I know he wouldn't talk about North Korea that way unless he was made to do so," Rogala said.

He also was puzzled over a statement in the letter that the Pueblo was "exactly 7.6 miles from their (Korea's) coast" when the ship and its 82 crewmen were captured Jan. 23.

"How would he know exactly how far the ship was from the Korean coast unless someone told him and made him write it down?" Rogala asked.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency—KCNA—released the text of letters attributed to Seaman Rogala Sunday, along with letters attributed to Lawrence William Mack of Detroit.

KCNA quoted Mack as telling U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Gov. George Romney of Michigan that the Pueblo "was captured intact with secret and top secret documents and materials plus logs and charts detailing its espionage activities."

The agency broadcast five more letters today, bringing to 28 the number of what it has described as appeals by the Pueblo crewmen for the U.S. government to accept North Korean terms to win release for the crew. The North Koreans claim the Pueblo was spying in their territorial waters. They demand an apology and a promise of no spying against them in the future.

Mid-Week Lenten Service

Comforter Church

What Shall I Do With Jesus? will be the sermon topic of the Rev. John W. Mongin, pastor, at Comforter Reformed Church, Wynkoop Place, Thursday 7 p. m.

Trinity Lutheran

A film presentation, Part Four of the Words From the Cross—Security, will be a feature of the Wednesday 7:30 p. m. service at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone Streets. The Rev. Frederick C. Dunn, pastor will conduct the services of vespers after the film. A coffee and fellowship hour will be held in the church hall after the service.

Old Dutch

A family night Lenten dinner will be held at Old Dutch Church's Bethany Hall 6:30 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool will present the program on Parable. The church office may be contacted for reservations.

Redeemer Church

The regular midweek Lenten service at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers Street will be held on Wednesday 7:30 p. m., conducted by the pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise, DD, assisted by Russell F. Anderson. The meditation on the theme, Who? Me?, will be given by the pastor.

Following the service an informal discussion over coffee will be held in the assembly room on the topic, My Congregation's Equipment, another in a series led by layman of the church, George E. Schmidt, a member of the Parish Education Committee, will be the leader this week.

Scientist Visits

Huston K. Myers, junior scientist at Roswell Park Memorial Institute Cancer Research Center, Buffalo, spent last week visiting the nine school districts in Ulster County to present a program on Cigarette Smoking Education. This visit was arranged and sponsored by the Ulster County SNT Association in the hope of impressing students with the dangers involved in cigarette smoking. Colored slides illustrated the lecture.

Lock Your Car

The National Theft Bureau reports 651,700 cars stolen in 1967. This is a 20 per cent increase in car thefts in 1967 over 1966 and more than 100 per cent over 1960. They represented an estimated value in excess of $650 million—more than the value of all other larcenies combined.

Although the recovery rate of stolen cars has been more than 90 per cent, there is little comfort in that statistic. Many cars are found seriously damaged; others are stripped of components and accessories, often right down to the sheet metal.

Actual dollar cost of automobile thefts is placed at over $100 million, which is ultimately borne by everyone, either in direct losses, higher insurance premiums or increased taxes to pay for police, court and prison expenses.

But the highest cost to society, in the opinion of law enforcement and penal authorities, is the fact that some 50 per cent of the persons arrested for auto theft are under the age of 18.

Whether for a thrill, a joy ride or stripping for financial gain, the first theft by a juvenile is often the prelude to a career of crime.

An unknown number of youths eventually graduate into the class of hardened adult criminals who account for the other 50 per cent of car thefts and who steal cars either for profit or for use in connection with other crimes.

There is little the public can do about professional car thieves, who have ingenious methods of transporting and disguising cars, switching serial and motor numbers and counterfeiting ownership papers. But it can do much to deter the youthful beginner.

While a locked car and the absence of keys will not stop the determined professional criminal, it could prevent a young person from getting into serious trouble. This alone should hasten the cooperation of all car owners to help curb temptation.

Children's TV Workshop

Television has become the nation's baby sitter. Children under the age of six spend upwards of 54.1 hours a week in front of the television screen. If a spot commercial can arouse interest in an item of merchandise, it is reasoned, why can't a spot engender interest in the letter "A," the numeral "1" or the phenomena of a snowball?

That is some of the thinking behind the establishment of the Children's Television Workshop by the U. S. Office of Education, the Carnegie Corporation and the Ford Foundation. Its main object is to stimulate the intellectual and cultural growth of young children, primarily from disadvantaged backgrounds, but obviously open to all.

Since at least half of the nation's school districts have no kindergartens, the workshop would seek to teach numbers, classic stories, and alphabet, language and the art of reasoning to pre-school children.

About five million children four years of age are candidates for preschooling. The cost of educating them in conventional schools, exclusive of the cost of buildings, would amount to $2.75 billion. Television reaches 90 per cent of households with an annual income of under $5,000. It seems to present the needed classrooms for disadvantaged children.

The programs will be at least a year in preparation. They will get a tryout during the 1969 school year. It holds great promise of increasing children's readiness for learning.

Catholic Charities

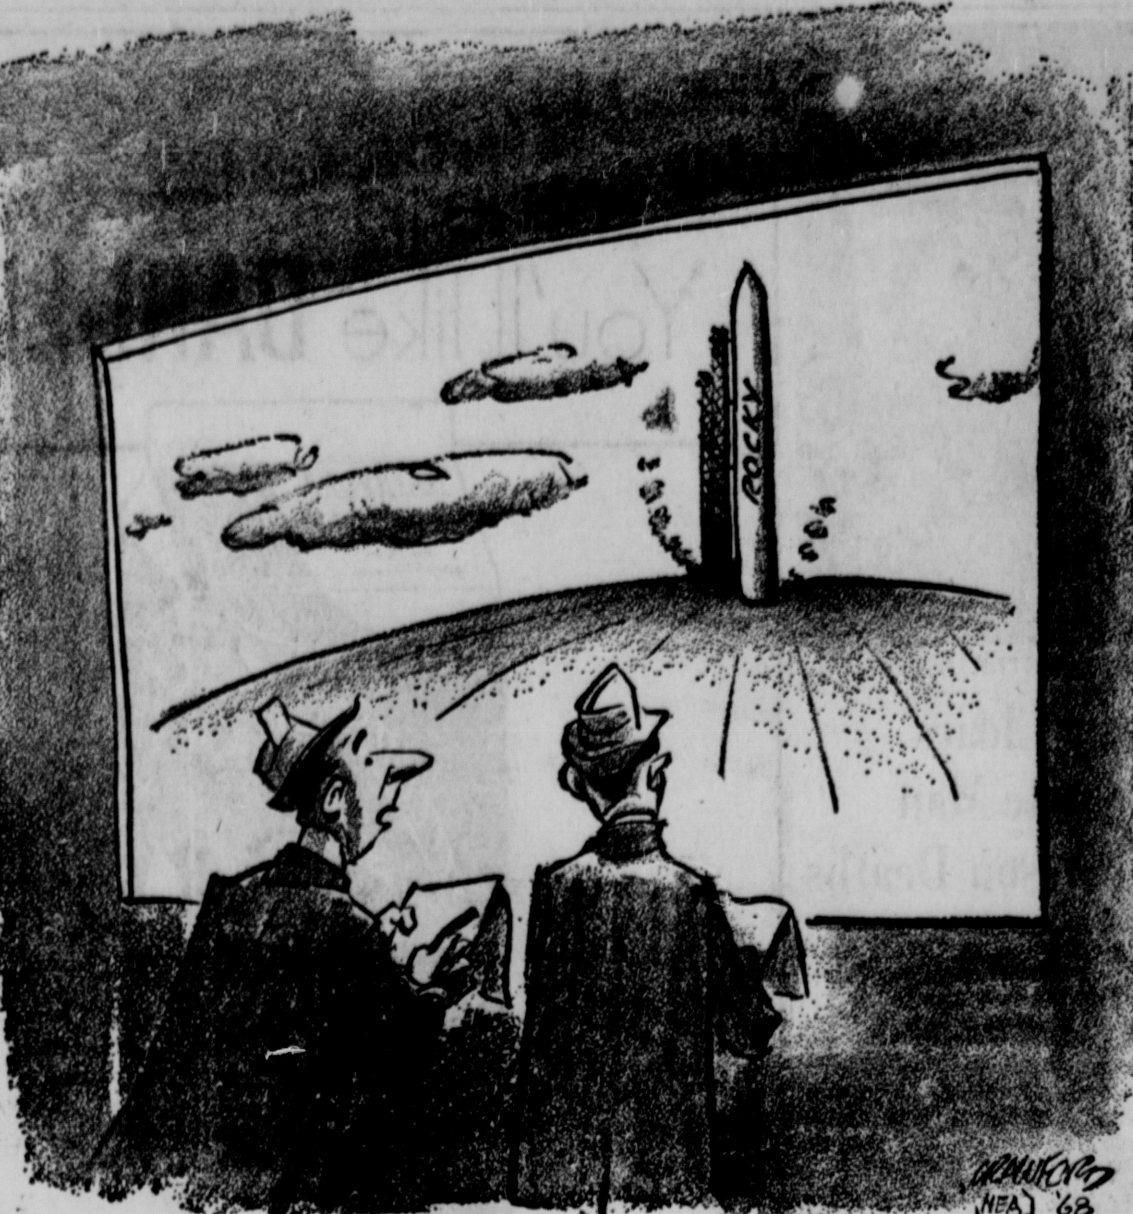

New York Catholic Charities annual fund appeal is underway throughout the New York Archdiocese. Last year, together with its federation of 203 affiliated agencies, it came to the assistance of nearly 600,000 persons in varying degrees of human distress.

Catholic Charities is a people-oriented organization. People and their problems are the sole reason for its existence—people who are sick, children who are homeless, neglected or abused, old folks who are alone and unable to care for their own needs and frustrated parents too disadvantaged to give their children a chance in life.

As it is on people and their troubles upon whom their concern is focused, it is also on people whom they depend for support. This year's goal is $3,850,000.

Announcement of the appeal was made Sunday in the 400 parishes of the Archdiocese. Covering an area of 4,714 square miles, their services reach more than one fourth of the population of the Archdiocese, which includes Ulster County.

The extent of the services achieved by this organization impels continued generous support.

"There's a Wisp of Smoke, but Will It Take Off?"

David Lawrence Says

Rockefeller, Kennedy Families in Politics

WASHINGTON — From time immemorial it has been debated whether heredity has anything to do with the motivations or ambitions of the sons or daughters who, in succeeding generations, distinguish themselves.

How many people, for instance, who have been reading lately about Governor Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller of New York know that his maternal grandfather was "Nelson Aldrich"? The latter, a Republican, was in Congress for nearly 30 years and was for a long time the majority leader of the United States Senate. He retired in 1911.

How many people know that the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was the grandson of John Fitzgerald, Democrat, several times mayor of Boston and a member of Congress?

Both the Rockefeller and Kennedy fortunes have been given in part to philanthropy. Public service, rather than money-making, attracts both families nowadays. There are two Kennedy brothers in the United States Senate. Two Rockefeller brothers are serving as governors, with a nephew in the West Virginia Legislature.

Senator Nelson Aldrich of Rhode Island was perhaps the most influential legislator of his time. Presidents were careful to consult him and asked his approval before they nominated Supreme Court Justices. For he could readily block confirmation. He led the Senate with a firm hand and was known as a "political boss."

Nelson Aldrich was the son of a farmer, and at the age of 24 became a partner in a large grocery firm. He subsequently went into banking and other businesses, and was an advocate of banking reforms. He was considered the ablest Conservative of his time, but he did not oppose reforms that were constructive even though novel.

The "Aldrich - Vreeland" Act, passed after the panic of 1907, called for the creation of a National Monetary Commission, of which Senator Aldrich became chairman. His studies of world banking problems led to the development of the "Aldrich Plan" in 1911, which contained many features later embodied in the Federal Reserve System. He was noted for his sponsorship of the Payne-Aldrich Tariff Law in 1909, which caused the Republican party to lose control of the House of Representatives in 1910.

Governor Rockefeller's paternal grandfather—John D. Rockefeller—was the richest man America ever produced and the first to amass a billion dollars. He died at the age of 98 in 1937, at which time a billion dollars would buy several times what it does today. He had developed a virtual monopoly of the oil-refining business as a result of his early association with an inventor of a cheap process of refining oil.

Mr. Rockefeller donated millions to establish and endow the University of Chicago in 1892. His son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., devoted his life to charitable endeavors, especially in the field of education and medical research. He gave much of his time to the Rockefeller Foundation, of which Dean Rusk, at present Secretary of State, was for many years president.

The Kennedy gifts have been a big factor in helping mentally retarded children. But public service also attracted the family. Joseph P. Kennedy, after a career in Wall Street, became chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, but later appointed him U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain.

So politics and the desire for public life have permeated both the Rockefeller and the Kennedy households. It is true that the sons of rich men start with an advantage in one respect. Because of their independent incomes, they do not have to rely on big campaign contributors for a chance to win public office.

It is not unnatural for the sons of men of wealth, therefore, to turn to public service, and some of them probably do inherit an instinct for leadership from their not-far-distant ancestors who learned by experience the human equations of American politics.

Shift of Viet Command Gives LBJ Option to Change Strategy

By PETER LISAGOR

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — The impending reshuffle of the American command in Vietnam opens for President Johnson an opportunity to change the strategy, if not the course, of the U. S. effort in South Vietnam.

The President's decision to name Gen. William C. Westmoreland the Army Chief of Staff, effective July 2, inevitably invites speculation that Mr. Johnson may be moving to meet the challenge to his Vietnam policies of his political rivals, Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy.

He clearly sought at an informal news conference in his office Friday to discourage the notion that Westmoreland was being relieved of his command in Vietnam because of the surprising resurgence of the enemy in recent weeks.

The changes in the Joint Chiefs of Staff had been contemplated for some time, he said, and to a later question, he observed that Vietnam strategy has "nothing to do" with the shifts.

However, he added that it would not be "fair, proper or possible" for him to discuss the plans and programs of Westmoreland's successor, who has not been selected.

Comparing Westmoreland with other able American generals, including the two commanders in World Wars I and II, John J. Pershing and Dwight D. Eisenhower, and the present chairman of the Joint Chiefs, Earle G. Wheeler, the President indicated that he would not anticipate Westmoreland's contribution in the war councils at the Pentagon when he assumes his new duties.

The fact that he declined to rule out flatly possible changes in the present

"search and destroy" strategy gives him some elbow room in the future direction of the war.

Might Seek New Team

Though many have thought that Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, Westmoreland's deputy, was a probable successor, the President left the matter open, suggesting that he might seek a new team for Vietnam.

He announced that the current terms of Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp, commander-in-chief, Pacific, (CINCPAC), ends May 1, but that he was asking Sharp to stay at his post until July 2, by which time a successor would be chosen.

Speculation about Westmoreland had centered on the possibility that he might be elevated to the post of chairman of the Joint Chiefs. But the President said he was asking Congress to extend the term of Wheeler, who was due to step down on July 2, for another year.

The political implications of the shifts were hard to avoid. Westmoreland has fallen under critical fires since the Lunar New Year offensive in late January and February. And only yesterday the Washington Post carried a letter by historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., a Kennedy adviser, criticizing Westmoreland.

Asserting that Mr. Johnson liked to compare himself with Lincoln, Schlesinger charged that the President "lacks one prime Lincolnian quality, that is, the courage to fire generals when they have shown they do not know how to win wars."

"Lincoln ran through a long string of generals before he got to Grant. It is not likely he would have suffered Westmoreland three months."

In the past, the President has blamed criticism of Westmoreland on Hanoi's desire to create a lack of confidence in the U. S. command.

Series of Appointments

At his news conference, the President calmly announced a series of appointments before he came to the changes in the Joint Chiefs, and he left the Westmoreland move until the last.

He said that former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara had considered a number of alternatives and made recommendations to him in longhand last Jan. 19. He brandished a sheet of paper showing the McNamara recommendations. The January date was before the Tet offensive was launched.

The new Defense Secretary, Clark Clifford, had reviewed the McNamara proposals, the President said.

Asked about peace prospects in Vietnam, Mr. Johnson replied that "peace is a very elusive thing" but that he and his advisers were daily trying to find a resolution to the war. He said he could not divine what was in the enemy's mind.

Drew Pearson Says Gov. Rockefeller Was Victim Of Malicious Untrue Rumors

WASHINGTON — During the days immediately prior to and after Governor Rockefeller's withdrawal from the Presidential race, this column was queried by newspapers and weekly magazines as to whether we were preparing a column on Rockefeller's private life.

Specifically, questions were asked regarding a report that Rockefeller had withdrawn from the race because of an impending column on this subject.

The answer is that we had investigated certain reports that Governor Rockefeller had developed a new romance and that his marriage to Happy was foundering. We found that, on the contrary, the Rockefeller second marriage is most harmonious and compatible. There was no truth to the report.

However, the important fact is that these reports had been deliberately circulated by Rockefeller's political enemies. Furthermore, they had been circulated so assiduously that they had won credence in the Eastern part of the United States, even including the name of an alleged girl friend.

It was impossible to trace the rumors to their exact origin, but it was ascertained they had been spread in part by supporters of Richard Nixon. It was also ascertained that Nixon has compiled dossiers on men who might challenge him for the Republican nomination.

At the time of the controversy over the two homosexuals on the staff of Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, it became known that Nixon's "Reagan file" was in the possession of ex-Congressman Pat Hillings, R-Calif., one of Nixon's close associates. Hillings could not leak information from the file, however, without Nixon's personal approval which, in this case, was not given.

We doubt very much whether Governor Rockefeller withdrew from the Presidential race because of these rumors. He has been sensitive about his divorce, and the possibility that it would be drawn into the Presidential race. Never has a divorced man been elected President.

We are certain, however, that the rumor mill is going to play a part in the coming campaign, and we write this to warn that the American public should be prepared for it.

Vice President Nixon, by his own public admission, believes in waging a "rocking, socking" campaign.

One who fully expects to get socked is President Johnson, who believes Nixon is watching for an opportunity to use the soft-on-communism charge against him. Indeed, this fear is one factor influencing the President today regarding his Vietnam policies. He has told intimates that he can't very well retreat from his hard line until Nixon declares where he stands on Vietnam. He believes there is more political danger in being accused of appeasement than of escalation. In short, the President would rather be attacked by the doves than by the hawks.

Meanwhile, the political battle, like the war in Vietnam, will be escalating.

Bobby's Auto Problem

Bobby Kennedy will be on the spot this week as to whether he puts consumers or politics first. He'll also have an interesting conflict between his No. 1 adviser, Ted Sorensen, and Sorensen's No. 1 law client, General Motors.

It happens that Bobby has done an excellent job of putting the heat on the big motor moguls to improve their safety practices. He has been a staunch supporter of Sen. Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn., who pioneered for better automobile safety. Ribicoff is calling the auto manufacturers before his committee on March 29 to probe their increased costs and whether they are justified by increased safety.

Both Ribicoff and Kennedy have been skeptical, and had planned to subject representatives of the four automobile companies to tough cross-examination.

However, this was before Bobby Kennedy got into the Presidential swim. It was also before Ted Sorensen began writing speeches for him. Sorensen happens to be the attorney for General Motors, the No. 1 company scheduled to be put on the griddle in the March 29 hearings.

What the motor moguls are hoping is that Senator Kennedy will take a run-out powder that day. It will be interesting to see whether he puts the public interest or his political interest first.

Capital News Capsules

Wisconsin Cross-Over — GOP leaders have passed the word to Republican voters to cross over into the Democratic primary on April 2 and cast their ballots for Sen. Eugene McCarthy. The idea is to embarrass President Johnson and sharpen the split in the Democratic Party. It will also take votes away from Ronald Reagan of California, whose name is on the ballot but he has made no effort to seek votes. If many Republicans cross over, it could cause Nixon more embarrassment than it could LEJ.

Brass-Hat Crack-Down — Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N. Y., has been trying for several weeks to get a copy of the first hearings on Cmdr. Marcus Arnheiter held at Subic Bay, but had been given the runaround. Even Commander Arnheiter has been refused a copy of his own trial at which top brass in the Navy decided to fire him without further hearings. It's a well established rule of evidence that the accused has the right to see what he's accused of, but Arnheiter has been denied this privilege.

Continue War in Vietnam?

Secretary of State Rusk told a group of religious leaders off-the-record that no matter who is elected President in November, the new President will not change our basic Vietnam policies. Rusk said he couldn't believe that any of the Presidential candidates would fail to keep our commitments to South Vietnam. (Apparently he included Bobby Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy.)

Henry J. Taylor Says

Lies and U.S. Dollars Debacle

"Sin has many tools but a lie is the handle, which fits them all," said Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Our government has been lying to us about our money for seven solid years; scolding warnings, calling the truth a "myth," vehemently denying the dangers in overspending and debt and gaining political profit by all this. The payoff to us is the U.S. dollar debacle.

The four saddest words in any language are: "I told you so." It is utterly sickening to see this preposterous mess with its great profits and costs after writing—I've no idea how many times—that Presidents Kennedy and Johnson were inevitably creating exactly the result we see today.

It takes an awful lot of doing to mismanage the richest and most productive country on earth so badly, so incredibly badly, that a day could come when some European hotels wouldn't even accept an American dollar! Yet the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink actually achieved it.

Having sold us down the river, what is the household effect of the dollar debacle? What will go up; what will go down?

The cost of living is bound to go up to new all-time highs. The inflation is already mounting at least a third faster than last year. And paper money inflation feeds on itself. We will pay for the financial irresponsibility and political greed, every one of us, right out of our hides.

Taxes are bound to go up. The debacle would cause this anyway; the Vietnam war only makes it more certain. President Johnson and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara contrived to keep from general knowledge the fact that the Vietnam costs had grown to about $20 billion a year.

One reason, privately admitted by Administration officials, was that they knew Congress would drastically cut Mr. Johnson's domestic outpourings if the full truth about the war costs were revealed. Accordingly, playing the political game to the hilt, Mr. McNamara never budgeted even a single nickel for the Vietnam war until fiscal 1967: "Oh what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive," wrote bard Sir Walter Scott.

Wages are bound to go up. When taxes and prices and wages leapfrog each other, as they must under these conditions, no one winds up ahead. The cost of sending your child to college is bound to go up. If you now have a baby in the family, the child will be ready for college in 1966. By then it will cost an estimated $18,900 to send that child through a four-year college course.

Interest rates are bound to go up. You will have to figure on some rates being the highest in 100 years. Several are there already. It will be increasingly hard to build a house, buy one or even to sell one.

Travel expenses are bound to go up. Buying or doing the same things will cost Americans more abroad. Our dollars are dollarless.

The value of your savings, life insurance, pensions, retirement contracts, annuities and every other nest egg you have put aside will go down. This is one of the most unconscionable results of the Kennedy-Johnson debacle.

The great gainer is the same gainer that has gained so incredibly by Washington's mismanagement of the Vietnam war—our declared enemy, the U.S.S.R.

Our dollar debacle, which forced us to create the so-called two-tier gold price, means that Russia has been handed billions in gold profits with which to buy abroad more special arms, machinery and productive tools without an additional ounce of effort. Finally, Washington vitally limits our nation's freedom of action in today's pressure-cooker world. A nation in an immense and escalating war with its currency under siege has few options.

More than three years ago (February 9, 1965) the Senate Banking and Currency Committee invited me to testify on our financial outlook. I am sickened to recall my own testimony. The present debacle was clearly foreseeable then and, in fact, from the very day that the New Frontier began its butchering of the people's dollars. The White House and Treasury officials shouted this testimony down as being alarmist. Raw, greedy politics has prevailed over the truth year after year—and here we are today.

Viet Foes 'Bleeding' U.S. With Gold Drain Tactics

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

BANGKOK (NEA) — Some interesting sidelights on the gold crisis come to view in this ancient capital of Thailand.

For some time the Communist Chinese have been buying gold on the world markets and shipping it in to mainland China by ship and plane. No one knows how great these imports are. But this correspondent has talked with men who have seen some of these shipments first hand. This has been going on at a time when the Chinese were hard-pressed for foreign exchange to buy food and were therefore seeking credits.

The French, closely co-operating with the Communists in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, have been converting into gold a good portion of the funds they're making in legal and illegal trading with and for the Communists.

A small but significant part of the dollar drain resulting from the war in Vietnam is due to these French profits. Conservative estimates from banking and trading sources put the French dollar "take" from Southeast Asia at upwards of $200 million a year.

Ho Chi Minh and his defense minister, Gen. Nguyen Giap, have been saying for some time that one of their major objectives in Vietnam is to force a strong increase in U.S. troops equipment and supplies, upping the already heavy dollar drain of this war.

A possibility exists that some of the recent Communist advances toward the Thai borders are aimed at getting Thailand to spend more in defense and thus put pressure on the country's economic stability, which currently is sound.

The Russians and the French may be attempting to convince the Arab countries with large sums on deposit in London that it would be wise to transfer all or part of these balances. Such transfers could put dramatic new pressure on both the pound and the dollar.

These and other economic moves by Communist countries and their allies should be studied in the context of past statements by Ho and Giap.

A major point in Communist subversive insurgency doctrine is economic subversion of the enemy. In Red doctrine, economic warfare is considered far more important than guerrilla or conventional military actions.

Ho and Giap have asserted time and again that a strong enemy such as the United States can be defeated by dissipating its strength. By stimulating already-existing economic pressures on a wide number of fronts, the Ho-Giap doctrine holds, the United States can be so hurt doctrinally that it will be tempted to cut its losses by hedging on its foreign commitments in Vietnam, Laos, Thailand, Latin America, the Middle East and Africa.

Lock Your Car

The National Theft Bureau reports 651,700 cars stolen in 1967. This is a 20 per cent increase in car thefts in 1967 over 1966 and more than 100 per cent over 1960. They represented an estimated value in excess of $650 million—more than the value of all other larcenies combined.

Although the recovery rate of stolen cars has been more than 90 per cent, there is little comfort in that statistic. Many cars are found seriously damaged; others are stripped of components and accessories, often right down to the sheet metal.

Actual dollar cost of automobile thefts is placed at over $100 million, which is ultimately borne by everyone, either in direct losses, higher insurance premiums or increased taxes to pay for police, court and prison expenses.

But the highest cost to society, in the opinion of law enforcement and penal authorities, is the fact that some 50 per cent of the persons arrested for auto theft are under the age of 18.

Whether for a thrill, a joy ride or stripping for financial gain, the first theft by a juvenile is often the prelude to a career of crime.

An unknown number of youths eventually graduate into the class of hardened adult criminals who account for the other 50 per cent of car thefts and who steal cars either for profit or for use in connection with other crimes.

There is little the public can do about professional car thieves, who have ingenious methods of transporting and disguising cars, switching serial and motor numbers and counterfeiting ownership papers. But it can do much to deter the youthful beginner.

While a locked car and the absence of keys will not stop the determined professional criminal, it could prevent a young person from getting into serious trouble. This alone should hasten the cooperation of all car owners to help curb temptation.

Children's TV Workshop

Television has become the nation's baby sitter. Children under the age of six spend upwards of 54.1 hours a week in front of the television screen. If a spot commercial can arouse interest in an item of merchandise, it is reasoned, why can't a spot engender interest in the letter "A," the numeral "1" or the phenomena of a snowball?

That is some of the thinking behind the establishment of the Children's Television Workshop by the U. S. Office of Education, the Carnegie Corporation and the Ford Foundation. Its main object is to stimulate the intellectual and cultural growth of young children, primarily from disadvantaged backgrounds, but obviously open to all.

Since at least half of the nation's school districts have no kindergartens, the workshop would seek to teach numbers, classic stories, and alphabet, language and the art of reasoning to pre-school children.

About five million children four years of age are candidates for preschooling. The cost of educating them in conventional schools, exclusive of the cost of buildings, would amount to $2.75 billion. Television reaches 90 per cent of households with an annual income of under $5,000. It seems to present the needed classrooms for disadvantaged children.

The programs will be at least a year in preparation. They will get a tryout during the 1969 school year. It holds great promise of increasing children's readiness for learning.

Catholic Charities

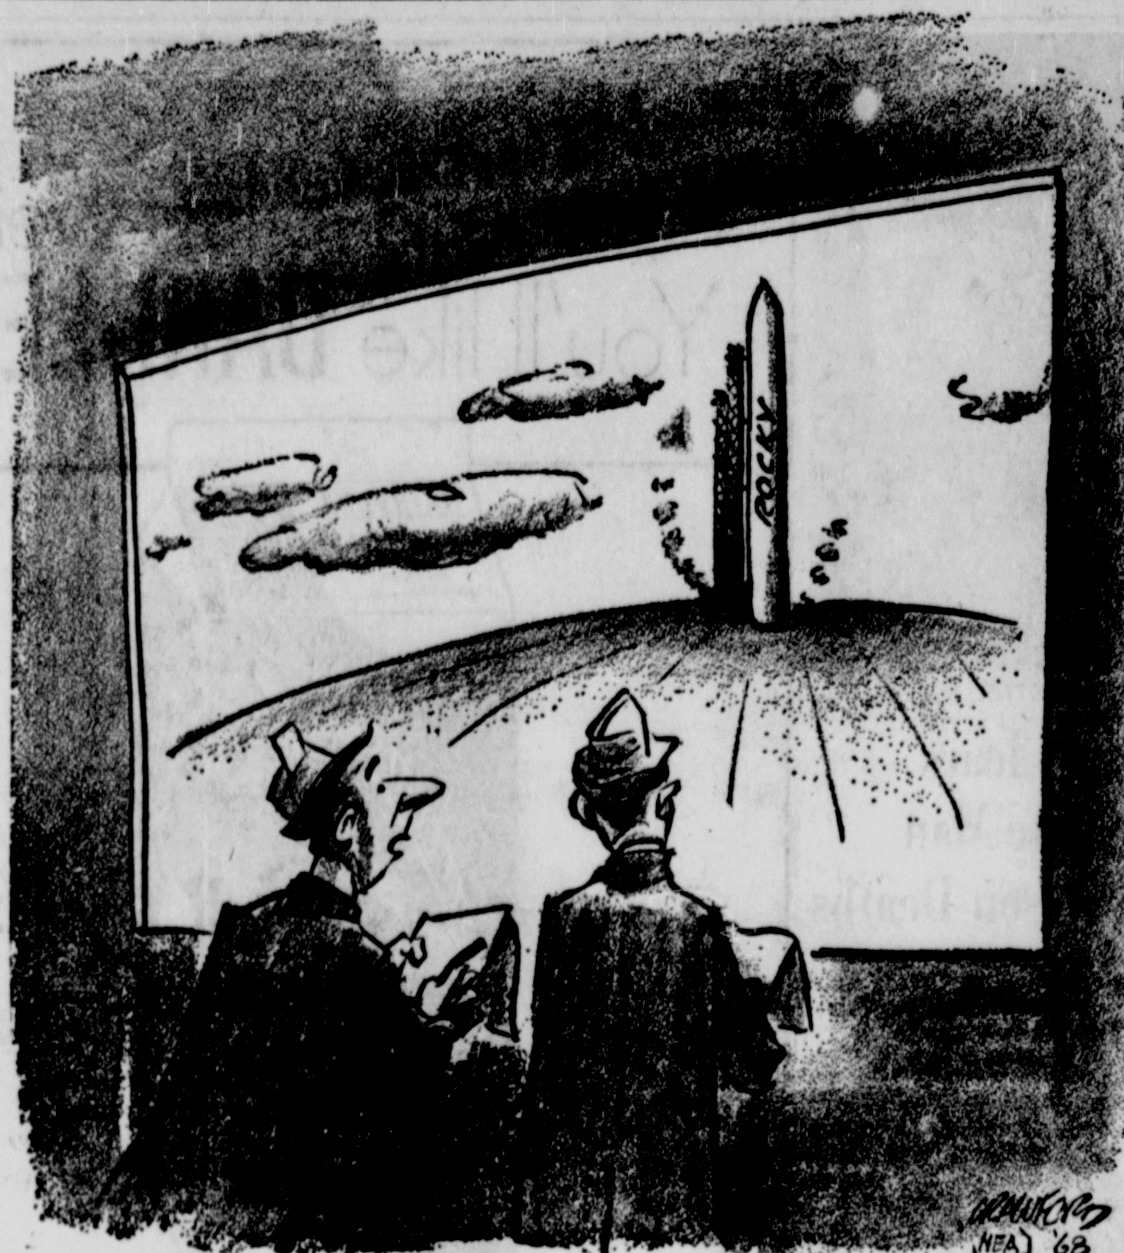

New York Catholic Charities annual fund appeal is underway throughout the New York Archdiocese. Last year, together with its federation of 203 affiliated agencies, it came to the assistance of nearly 600,000 persons in varying degrees of human distress.

Catholic Charities is a people-oriented organization. People and their problems are the sole reason for its existence—people who are sick, children who are homeless, neglected or abused, old folks who are alone and unable to care for their own needs and frustrated parents too disadvantaged to give their children a chance in life.

As it is on people and their troubles upon whom their concern is focused, it is also on people whom they depend for support. This year's goal is $3,850,000.

Announcement of the appeal was made Sunday in the 400 parishes of the Archdiocese. Covering an area of 4,714 square miles, their services reach more than one fourth of the population of the Archdiocese, which includes Ulster County.

The extent of the services achieved by this organization impels continued generous support.

David Lawrence Says

Rockefeller, Kennedy Families in Politics

WASHINGTON — From time immemorial it has been debated whether heredity has anything to do with the motivations or ambitions of the sons or daughters who, in succeeding generations, distinguish themselves.

How many people, for instance, who have been reading lately about Governor Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller of New York know that his maternal grandfather was "Nelson Aldrich"? The latter, a Republican, was in Congress for nearly 30 years and was for a long time the majority leader of the United States Senate. He retired in 1911.

How many people know that the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was the grandson of John Fitzgerald, Democrat, several times mayor of Boston and a member of Congress?

Both the Rockefeller and Kennedy fortunes have been given in part to philanthropy. Public service, rather than money-making, attracts both families nowadays. There are two Kennedy brothers in the United States Senate. Two Rockefeller brothers are serving as governors, with a nephew in the West Virginia Legislature.

Senator Nelson Aldrich of Rhode Island was perhaps the most influential legislator of his time. Presidents were careful to consult him before they nominated Supreme Court Justices. For he could readily block confirmation. He led the Senate with a firm hand and was known as a "political boss."

Nelson Aldrich was the son of a farmer, and at the age of 24 became a partner in a large grocery firm. He subsequently went into banking and other businesses, and was an advocate of banking reforms. He was considered the ablest Conservative of his time, but he did not oppose reforms that were constructive even though novel.

The "Aldrich - Vreeland" Act, passed after the panic of 1907, called for the creation of a National Monetary Commission, of which Senator Aldrich became chairman. His studies of world banking problems led to the development of the "Aldrich Plan" in 1911, which contained many features later embodied in the Federal Reserve System. He was noted for his sponsorship of the Payne-Aldrich Tariff Law in 1909, which caused the Republican party to lose control of the House of Representatives in 1910.

Governor Rockefeller's paternal grandfather—John D. Rockefeller—was the richest man America ever produced and the first to amass a billion dollars. He died at the age of 98 in 1937, at which time a billion dollars would buy several times what it does today. He had developed a virtual monopoly of the oil refining business as a result of his early association with an inventor of a cheap process of refining oil.

Mr. Rockefeller donated millions to establish and endow the University of Chicago in 1892. His son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., devoted his life to charitable endeavors, especially in the field of education and medical research. He gave much of his time to the Rockefeller Foundation, of which Dean Rusk, at present Secretary of State, was for many years president.

The Kennedy gifts have been a big factor in helping mentally retarded children. But public service also attracted the family. Joseph P. Kennedy, after a career in Wall Street, became chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission under President Franklin R. Roosevelt, who later appointed him U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain.

So politics and the desire for public life have permeated both the Rockefeller and the Kennedy households. It is true that the sons of rich men start with an advantage in one respect. Because of their independent incomes, they do not have to rely on big campaign contributors for a chance to win public office.

It is not unnatural for the sons of men of wealth, therefore, to turn to public service, and some of them probably do inherit an instinct for leadership from their not-far-distant ancestors who learned by experience the human equations of American politics.

Shift of Viet Command Gives LBJ Option to Change Strategy

By PETER LISAGOR

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — The impending reshuffle of the American command in Vietnam opens for President Johnson an opportunity to change the strategy, if not the course, of the U. S. effort in South Vietnam.

The President's decision to name Gen. William C. Westmoreland the Army Chief of Staff, effective July 2, inevitably invites speculation that Mr. Johnson may be moving to meet the challenge to his Vietnam policies of his political rivals, Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy.

He clearly sought at an informal news conference in his office Friday to discourage the notion that Westmoreland was being relieved of his command in Vietnam because of the surprising resurgence of the enemy in recent weeks.

The changes in the Joint Chiefs of Staff had been contemplated for some time, he said, and to a later question, he observed that Vietnam strategy has "nothing to do" with the shifts.

However, he added that it would not be "fair, proper or possible" for rivals to discuss the plans and programs of Westmoreland's successor, who has not been selected.

Comparing Westmoreland with other able American generals, including the two commanders in World Wars I and II, John J. Pershing and Dwight D. Eisenhower, and the present chairman of the Joint Chiefs, Earle G. Wheeler, the President indicated that he would not anticipate Westmoreland's contribution in the war councils at the Pentagon when he assumes his new duties.

The fact that he declined to rule out flatly possible changes in the present

"search and destroy" strategy gives him some elbow room in the future direction of the war.

Might Seek New Team

Though many have thought that Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, Westmoreland's deputy, was a probable successor, the President left the matter open, suggesting that he might seek a new team for Vietnam.

He announced that the current terms of Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp, commander-in-chief, Pacific (CINCPAC), ends May 1, but that he was asking Sharp to stay at his post until July 2, by which time a successor would be chosen.

Speculation about Westmoreland had centered on the possibility that he might be elevated to the post of chairman of the Joint Chiefs. But the President said he was asking Congress to extend the term of Wheeler, who was due to step down on July 2, for another year.

The political implications of the shifts were hard to

Drew Pearson Says Gov. Rockefeller Was Victim Of Malicious Untrue Rumors

WASHINGTON — During the days immediately prior to and after Governor Rockefeller's withdrawal from the Presidential race, this column was queried by newspapers and weekly magazines as to whether we were preparing a column on Rockefeller's private life.

Specifically, questions were asked regarding a report that Rockefeller had withdrawn from the race because of an impending column on this subject.

The answer is that we had investigated certain reports that Governor Rockefeller had developed a new romance and that his marriage to Happy was foundering. We found that, on the contrary, the Rockefeller second marriage is most harmonious and compatible. There was no truth to the report.

However, the important fact is that these reports had been deliberately circulated by Rockefeller's political enemies. Furthermore, they had been circulated so assiduously that they had won credence in the Eastern part of the United States, even including the name of an alleged girl friend.

It was impossible to trace the rumors to their exact origin, but it was ascertained they had been spread in part by supporters of Richard Nixon. It was also ascertained that Nixon has compiled dossiers on men who might challenge him for the Republican nomination.

At the time of the controversy over the two homosexuals on the staff of Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, it became known that Nixon's "Reagan file" was in the possession of ex-Congressman Pat Hillings, R-Calif., one of Nixon's close associates. Hillings could not leak information from the file, however, without Nixon's personal approval which, in this case, was not given.

We doubt very much whether Governor Rockefeller withdrew from the Presidential race because of these rumors. He has been sensitive about his divorce, and the possibility that it would be drawn into the Presidential race. Never has a divorced man been elected President.

We are certain, however, that the rumor mill is going to play a part in the coming campaign, and we write this to warn that the American public should be prepared for it.

Vice President Nixon, by his own public admission, believes in waging a "rocking, socking" campaign.

One who fully expects to get socked is President Johnson, who believes Nixon is watching for an opportunity to use the soft-on-communism charge against him. Indeed, this fear is one factor influencing the President today regarding his Vietnam policies. He has told intimates that he can't very well retreat from his hard line until Nixon declares where he stands on Vietnam. He believes there is more political danger in being accused of appeasement than of escalation. In short, the President would rather be attacked by the doves than by the hawks.

Meanwhile, the political battle, like the war in Vietnam, will be escalating.

Bobby's Auto Problem

Bobby Kennedy will be on the spot this week as to whether he puts consumers or politics first. He'll also have an interesting conflict between his No. 1 adviser, Ted Sorensen, and Sorensen's No. 1 law client, General Motors.

It happens that Bobby has done an excellent job of putting the heat on the big motor moguls to improve their safety practices. He has been a staunch supporter of Sen. Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn., who pioneered for better automobile safety. Ribicoff is calling the auto manufacturers before his committee on March 29 to probe their increased costs and whether they are justified by increased safety.

Both Ribicoff and Kennedy have been skeptical, and had planned to subject representatives of the four automobile companies to tough cross-examination.

However, this was before Bobby Kennedy got into the Presidential swim. It was also before Ted Sorensen began writing speeches for him. Sorensen happens to be the attorney for General Motors, the No. 1 company scheduled to be put on the griddle in the March 29 hearings.

What the motor moguls are hoping is that Senator Kennedy will take a run-out powder that day. It will be interesting to see whether he puts the public interest or his political interest first.

Wisconsin Cross-Over — GOP leaders have passed the word to Republican voters to cross over into the Democratic primary on April 2 and cast their ballots for Sen. Eugene McCarthy. The idea is to embarrass President Johnson and sharpen the split in the Democratic Party. It will also take votes away from Richard Nixon, and help Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, whose name is on the ballot but he has made no effort to seek votes. If many Republicans cross over, it could cause Nixon more embarrassment than he could LBJ.

Brass-Hat Crack-Down — Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N. Y., has been trying for several weeks to get a copy of the first hearings on Cmdr. Marcus Arnheiter held at Subic Bay, but had been given the runaround. Even Commander Arnheiter has been refused a copy of his own trial at which the top brass in the Navy decided to fire him without further hearings. It's a well established rule of evidence that the accused has the right to see what he's accused of, but Arnheiter has been denied this privilege.

Continued War in Vietnam? — Secretary of State Rusk told a group of religious leaders off-the-record that no matter who is elected President in November, the new President will not change our basic Vietnam policies. Rusk said he couldn't believe that any of the Presidential candidates would fail to keep our commitments to South Vietnam. (Apparently he included Bobby Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy.)

Henry J. Taylor Says

Lies and U.S. Dollars Debacle

"Sin has many tools but a lie is the handle which fits them all," said Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Our government has been lying to us about our money for seven solid years; scolding warnings, calling the truth a "myth," vehemently denying the dangers in overspending and debt and gaining political profit by all this. The payoff to us is the U.S. dollar debacle.

The four saddest words in any language are: "I told you so." It is utterly sickening to see this preposterous mess with its great perils and costs after writing—I've no idea how many times—that Presidents Kennedy and Johnson were inevitably creating exactly the result we see today.

It takes an awful lot of doing to mismanage the richest and most productive country on earth so badly, so incredibly badly, that a day could come when some European hotels wouldn't even accept an American dollar! Yet the Washington Robin Hoods of the Red Ink actually achieved it.

Having sold us down the river, what is the household effect of the dollar debacle? What will go up; what will go down?

The cost of living is bound to go up to new all-time highs. The inflation is already mounting at least a third faster than last year. And paper money inflation feeds on itself. We will pay for the financial irresponsibility and political greed, every one of us, right out of our hides.

Taxes are bound to go up. The debacle would cause this, anyway; the Vietnam war only makes it more certain. President Johnson and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara contrived to keep from general knowledge the fact that the Vietnam costs had grown to about $20 billion a year.

One reason, privately admitted by Administration officials, was that they knew Congress would drastically cut Mr. Johnson's domestic outpourings if the full truth about the war costs were revealed. Accordingly, playing the political game to the hilt, Mr. McNamara never budgeted even a single nickel for the Vietnam war until fiscal 1967! "Oh what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive," wrote bard Sir Walter Scott.

Wages are bound to go up. When taxes and prices and wages leapfrog each other, as they must under these conditions, no one winds up ahead. The cost of sending your child to college is bound to go up. If you now have a baby in the family, the child will be ready for college in 1986. By then it will cost an estimated $18,900 to send that child through a four-year college course.

Interest rates are bound to go up. You will have to figure on some rates being the highest in 100 years. Several are there already. It will be increasingly hard to build a house, buy one or even to sell one.

Travel expenses are bound to go up. Buying or doing the same things will cost Americans more abroad. Our dollars are dollarless.

The value of your savings, life insurance, pensions, retirement contracts, annuities and every other nest egg you have put aside will go down. This is one of the most unconscionable results of the Kennedy-Johnson debacle.

The great gainer is the same gainer that has gained so incredibly by Washington's mismanagement of the Vietnam war—our declared enemy, the U.S.S.R.

Our dollar debacle, which forced us to create the so-called two-tier gold price, means that Russia has been handed billions in gold profits with which to buy abroad more special arms, machinery and productive tools without an additional ounce of effort. Finally, Washington vitally limits our nation's freedom of action in today's pressure-cooker world. A nation in an immense and escalating war with its currency under siege has few options.

More than three years ago (February 9, 1965) the Senate Banking and Currency invited me to testify on our financial outlook. I am sickened to recall my own testimony. The present debacle was clearly foreseeable then and, in fact, from the very day that the New Frontier began its butchering of the people's dollars. The White House and Treasury officials shouted this testimony down as being alarmist. Raw, greedy politics has prevailed over the truth year after year—and here we are today.

Viet Foes 'Bleeding' U.S. With Gold Drain Tactics

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

BANGKOK (NEA) — Some interesting sidelights on the gold crisis come to view in this ancient capital of Thailand.

For some time the Communist Chinese have been buying gold on the world markets and shipping it in to mainland China by ship and plane. No one knows how great these imports are. But this correspondent has talked with men who have seen some of these shipments first hand. This has been going on at a time when the Chinese were hard-pressed for foreign exchange to buy food and were therefore seeking credits.

The French, closely cooperating with the Communists in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, have been converting into gold a good portion of the funds they're making in legal and illegal trading with and for the Communists.

A small but significant part of the dollar drain resulting from the war in Vietnam is due to these French profits. Conservative estimates from banking and trading sources put the French dollar "take" from Southeast Asia at upwards of $200 million a year. Ho Chi Minh and his defense minister, Gen. Dems for $130 Million Cut

Heavy Budget Pressure on Republicans

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Senate's Republican majority was under heavy pressure today to approve a largely Democratic plan to slash about $130 million from Gov. Rockefeller's budget and cutback his proposed 20 per cent income tax increase to 10 per cent.

The pressure was applied not only by GOP Senate leaders but also by the legislature's ranking Democrat, Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia.

Inching Toward Deadline

Noting that the legislature was inching toward an April 1 deadline — the start of the state's new fiscal year — without having decided what to do about Rockefeller's $5.5-billion spending plan, Travia said:

"Any failure of the the Legislature to pass the budget this week is wholly the responsibility of the Senate Republican majority. One can only hope this majority will be able to come to a decision before the new fiscal year begins."

Travia turned on the heat after Senate leaders outlined the budget-cutting plan Monday at a closed conference of GOP senators.

It was fashioned mainly by Travia and his Democratic-controlled Assembly Ways and Means Committee, in cooperation with the Republican-ruled Senate Finance Committee.

The senators were told to sleep on the plan and come back today with their opinions — whether to accept it or recommend other ways of economizing on the budget.

Another conference was scheduled for late this morning. Meanwhile, Rockefeller's administration complicated the annual budget-cutting exercise by serving notice that an additional $93 million in spending authority would be needed.

This would appear to negate much of the legislature's economy effort.

Leaves Him Cold

But Travia brusquely swept aside the proposal.

The request, he said, "leaves me cold." Moreover, he added, if Rockefeller needs more money, beyond the record sum he requested when presenting his budget last January, he will have to find it himself.

"Having done the hard work of cutting that swollen budget," Travia continued, "I don't in the least intend to give it back to the governor for his wild expenditure plans."

Passage came after S. William Green, R - Manhattan, the bill's sponsor, said the measure was not intended to apply to persons who had engaged in such forms of civil disobedience as desertion from the armed forces.

Antihate Measure Approved in Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A sweeping bill to thwart the inciting of violence against racial and ethnic minorities has won overwhelming approval in the Assembly, despite sharp debate in which opponents said the bid to curb hate - mongering impinged free speech.

The measure already had been passed in the Senate.

The vote in the Assembly Monday was 125-15.

The bill goes to Gov. Rockefeller, whose approval is uncertain.

Under the measure, it would be a misdemeanor to write, publish or utter anything that could be construed as an incitement to violence against any racial or ethnic group. Violators would be liable to a prison sentence of up to a year and a $1,000 fine.

Assemblymen Charles B. Rangel, D-Bronx, argued that innocent persons, such as distributors, could be harmed by the measure. He also said the bill might prove unconstitutional.

"If the bill is unconstitutional, we have judges to decide on that," Assemblyman Alexander Chanao, also a Bronx Democrat, replied.

Max Turshen, D - Brooklyn, asked.

Turshen, whose remarks drew applause, also cited the persecution of Jews in Hitler's Germany.

"They started by publishing hate and eventually six million people were exterminated," he charged.

In a separate action, the Assembly approved a proposed amendment to the state's civil-

Maneuvering over the budget dominated events on Capitol Hill as both houses of the Legislature occupied themselves with relatively minor legislation while waiting for the leadership to compromise on fiscal matters.

One of the budget bills gained final legislative approval in the Assembly, however. It would increase the estate tax on parimutuel horse racing and contribute an estimated $6.5 million in additional revenue to the treasury.

Shortly after the senators heard their leaders' budget presentation, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson dispatched a message to all lawmakers notifying them that the administration's spending requirement would be greater than the $5.5 billion originally budgeted.

Rocky Due Wednesday
Wilson acted in the absence of Rockefeller, who was enjoying a long-weekend respite with his family in Puerto Rico. He is due back in Albany Wednesday.

Wilson said the extra burden arose from sharply rising welfare costs, the state employee pay-rise package that Rockefeller negotiated this month and overestimates of tax revenue for the current fiscal year.

Those extra costs, Wilson said, total $133 million but would be offset partially by $40 million in savings by cutting back the medicaid program — for a net additional requirement of $93 million.

Harvey Lifset, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, described the development as "shocking." He said their "obviously no provision for the necessary revenue to balance the budget."

But his Republican counterpart, Senate Finance Chairman Warren Anderson, reacted casually.

"I'm not shook up about this,"

Anderson said. "We should be able to absorb the extra expenditures and still maintain our savings."

The $130 million in economies recommended jointly by the Lifset and Anderson committees would make it possible to cut the income tax surcharge in half. The tax boost has an estimated yield of $270 million in the new fiscal year.

Alternatively, the lawmakers could elect to reduce the surcharge by a lesser amount and delete other elements of the $494-million tax-increase package that Rockefeller said he needed to help balance his budget.

Antihate Measure Approved in Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A sweeping bill to thwart the inciting of violence against racial and ethnic minorities has won overwhelming approval in the Assembly, despite sharp debate in which opponents said the bid to curb hate-mongering impinged free speech.

The measure already had been passed in the Senate.

The vote in the Assembly Monday was 125-15.

The bill goes to Gov. Rockefeller, whose approval is uncertain.

Under the measure, it would be a misdemeanor to write, publish or utter anything that could be construed as an incitement to violence against any racial or ethnic group. Violators would be liable to a prison sentence of up to a year and a $1,000 fine.

Assemblymen Charles B. Rangel, D-Bronx, argued that innocent persons, such as distributors, could be harmed by the measure. He also said the bill might prove unconstitutional.

"If the bill is unconstitutional, we have judges to decide on that," Assemblyman Alexander Chanau, also a Bronx Democrat, replied.

"Why worry about constitutionality when a higher principle is at stake?" Assemblyman

Max Turshen, D-Brooklyn, asked. Turshen, whose remarks drew applause, also cited the persecution of Jews in Hitler's Germany.

"They started by publishing hate and eventually six million people were exterminated," he charged.

In a separate action, the Assembly approved a proposed amendment to the state's civil-rights law that would permit persons convicted for antisegregation activities in other states to be eligible for civil-service jobs in New York.

Passage came after S. William Green, R-Manhattan, the bill's sponsor, said the measure was not intended to apply to persons who had engaged in such forms of civil disobedience as desertion from the armed forces.

Wants Guards Withdrawn From Panamanian Palace

PANAMA (AP) — The National Assembly asked the National Guard, backing deposed President Marco A. Robles, to withdraw from around the legislative palace today so it can get to work with the new president it installed.

A spokesman for the 4,000-man guard, the country's only military force, said the request from Assembly President Carlos Agustín Arias was under study. But it was learned that the guard has notified Max Delvalle, sworn in as president Sunday, that he is not authorized to enter the assembly hall.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Adair Jr., meanwhile, was in formally in touch with Ricardo Arias, named foreign minister in the eight-man Delvalle Cabinet. The United States was caught up in the thorny problem of whether to recognize Delvalle.

In impeachment proceedings Sunday, Robles was convicted by a 30-0 vote, with 12 minority assemblymen abstaining, on charges that he was promoting his finance minister, David Samudio, to succeed him in the May presidential elections. The opposition claimed such support violates constitutional law but Robles countered that the law does not prohibit him from merely expressing a preference.

Behind this was the opposition's low regard for Samudio, whose tax reforms have offended Panama's wealthy elite. The opposition National Union, a five-party coalition, is backing former President Arnulfo Arias in the elections.

The guard has said it could not obey the assembly decision to change presidents but would wait an opinion from the Supreme Court, which convenes next Monday.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

MARCH 26, 1958 — Former State Senator Bernard Tompkins plans to start work here next Monday on his assignment to investigate kickbacks on official purchases in Ulster County. He claimed he had "not set quota" for the size of his probe staff. The rules committee in the New York State Assembly, however, introduced in Albany a bill to appropriate $150,000 for the investigation.

MARCH 26, 1948 — The Giles Drilling Corp., of New York bid low at $16,778 to do borings for the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge.

The Youth Fellowship of St. James Methodist Church planned an Easter dawn service to be held at Forsyth Park.

Racism Report Worries Cohen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wilbur J. Cohen, nominated by President Johnson to be secretary of health, education and welfare, says the White House riot commission's report overemphasizes "white racism."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has made a similar comment about the report. But the head of an administration antiracism program contended racism exists in and has been encouraged by the white churches of America.

Three Injured In Greene Mishap

Three men were injured in a one car accident on Rt. 9W in the Town of Athens about 9 last night state police at Leeds report.

Taken to Greene County hospital were Kevin Spence of Earlton, owner of the car in which they were driving. He suffered a fractured left leg and multiple head lacerations. William Hyer, 22, of Athens, was treated for facial bruises and released. Duane Cole, 21, no address listed, suffered multiple head and mouth lacerations.

According to the investigating officer, Trooper R. G. Sprague, the circumstances of the accident are unknown and it has not yet been determined who was driving the car at the time.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

The demands, sanctions and concessions in connection with 'rights' are often befuddled. Would it not be better for present day problems to be separated in terms of human rights, public rights, private rights and property rights? Each is a separate right and each right is chain linked to the other.

This chain of rights requires another link — all too often overlooked or forgotten. RESPONSIBILITY! It is hard, and sometimes seems impossible to impress the need for individual responsibility for ALL people. But it must be done. Every person must be morally responsible to himself AND to the rights of others. To excuse a person for irresponsibility because he is a "product" of circumstance or environment, in effect, stamps him as something less than a human being. Society means people. Not products. And people must recognize and exercise responsibility for their individual rights AND the rights of others.

In keeping with this present series of "get involved" thoughts, we suggest you write your President, your Congressmen and Senators. Insist they "get involved" in legislation that stresses individual rights MUST be chained to individual responsibility.

Stolen Cars Are Recovered; Man Is Arrested

A taxi cab and a car were reported stolen from Market Street, Ellenville yesterday in two separate incidents, one of which led to the arrest of J. Henry Dorsey, 45, of Spring Glen.

Dorsey, who allegedly took the cab from the J. and R. Taxi Company, was apprehended later when he became involved in a one-car accident on Rt. 209, Spring Glen.

Arrested by Ellenville Police Sgt. John Phillips, he entered a plea of innocent when arraigned before Judge Herbert Weissert in Ellenville. Bail was set at $500 and Dorsey is scheduled to appear in court again tonight.

State Trooper John Houton also investigated.

A second car, also reported stolen from Market Street, was removed sometime between 8:20 and 9:30 last night, according to village police.

The vehicle, a 1967 white Volkswagen, is owned by Roland Smith of Kerhonkson.

Is OIL HEAT the BEST FOR YOUR HOME? Rudolph Krievs, Builder, Says YES!

This four-bedroom ranch home, soon to be completed, will use OIL HEAT. It is the fourth of the fine homes built by Mr. Krievs in the Overlook Heights area of Dutchess County—all oil heated, of course.

As in other Krievs-constructed homes, oil heat was chosen because he, and his customers, want the most economical, dependable and safe fuel.

"Oil-heated homes sell quicker because oil is the best heat, and home buyers know it! Today's new oil heating systems are so small, compact and efficient that they give the home owner more heat and more space, too, for his money", says Mr. Krievs.

If you are building a new home, or are disenchanted with another fuel, specify a modern oil-heating system. Your local heating oil supplier will be glad to give you all the facts.

Guardsmen smashed windows and doors of the National Union headquarters Monday and moved in behind a tear gas barrage to arrest Hildegrando Nicolas, the union's secretary-general, and some 300 others opposed to Robles.

Washington officials said today nothing has occurred so far to force a decision on whether to recognize the Delvalle government. The State Department underscored its commitment to work with whichever of the two men Panamanians determine is their president.

Wives, Men, Hopefuls Tied Up by Teamsters

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives weep, men curse, and a presidential hopeful can't get established in his new national headquarters.

But the moving vans remain in their stalls, idled for almost a month by a strike of Teamsters in New York City and on Long Island.

"I'll be so happy to get out of New York," said one tearful woman as she tried vainly to find a way to get her household belongings transferred from Manhattan to Santa Monica, Calif.

A Flushing, Queens, man who has to move to Kansas City told a reporter "I'm damned if I'm going to wait for them to settle the strike ... If they won't move me, I'll rent a trailer and do it myself."

The campaign headquarters for Richard M. Nixon, who's seeking the GOP presidential nomination, was to have been moved March 2 from a small Fifth Avenue office to a more spacious one on Park Avenue.

The strike began March 1, and the Nixon team is still on Fifth Avenue, "sitting in each other's laps," as a campaign worker put it.

Racism Report Worries Cohen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wilbur J. Cohen, nominated by President Johnson to be secretary of health, education and welfare, says the White House riot commission's report overemphasizes "white racism."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has made a similar comment about the report. But the head of an administration antipoverty program contended racism exists in and has been encouraged by the white churches of America.

Cohen told a news conference Monday: "I've thought a good deal about that term 'white racism,' it bothers me a good deal, because I think you could also say there is black racism and brown racism and red racism."

He said he doubts that the commission's use of the term "white racism" is helpful.

Is Basic Factor

The National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders said in its report earlier this month that "white racism" was a basic factor in the riots that have torn the nation's big cities in recent summers.

Cohen said, "I wish some of the energy that has gone into rioting" had gone into efforts by the rioters for self improvement.

William H. Crook, executive director of the Volunteers in Service to America—VISTA—told a Southern Baptist Convention group today the churches must react to the riot commission report by rooting out bigotry and racism in the churches themselves.

Crook, who was once a Baptist pastor in Texas, cited the report's contention that "white racism" is the basic problem.

"Now the church is where the action is, for there is racism in the church," he said. "It has a second opportunity to be relevant, if it will deal with its members in rooting out bigotry and racism."

He said the big question is, does the church have the courage to act, or will she seek escapism and act defensively?

Wants Attention Paid

Crook also urged the churches to pay more attention to the problems of poverty, contending that in most cases "the church has failed to be relevant in the poverty issue."

Cohen, 54, who is slated to head the second largest government department, paused thoughtfully when asked about the riot commission report.

He said, "I believe the problem is more complicated than white racism" and calls for better housing, schools and jobs.

He said the nation does suffer from racial divisiveness but added great efforts have been made to overcome the problem. Many of the people trying to do so "have been repulsed by those who think Black Power means black segregation," he said.

Area Teenagers At UCCC for Advanced Study

Sixty-nine juniors and seniors from area high schools began an enrichment experience March 16 by attending the first session of the Saturday Collegiate Program sponsored by Ulster County Community College.

They are enrolled in two seminars, The Urbanization of America: Values in Conflict and Nature of Science.

"The purpose of this enrichment program," said Associate Professor Robert A. Kurland, the coordinator, "is to give high school students a stimulating, intellectual and challenging experience to broaden their interests in learning in a variety of fields."

The seminars are being held at the college's new Stone Ridge campus and are being attended by students from Kingston, John Coleman, Saugerties, Ellenville, Rondout Valley, Ontario, New Paltz and Wallkill High Schools.

The Urbanization of America seminar is being offered by the Social Science and Humanities Divisions at the college. It is focusing on the problems posed by the rapid change from country to city and suburban living in America. An attempt will be made to assess the impact of urbanization on human existence and the effect of this impact on human conduct.

While the general approach will stress the work of social scientists who have studied urbanization, the efforts of literary figures who have written in various ways about the city also will be considered.

The Nature of Science seminar, sponsored by the Science and Mathematics Division at UCCC, is an interdisciplinary program that will show how the various scientific and mathematical disciplines are interrelated.

Each instructor participating in this seminar is an expert in his field and will use concrete examples where possible in order to make the presentation realistic and easily understood. The approach is designed to be philosophical and as broad as possible in order to show how the sciences are related to life.

UCCC faculty members participating in the seminars are: Assistant Professor Louis Amaru, Associate Professor Walter Bartlett, Instructor Byron Connell, Associate Professor Richard Glazer, Instructor John Mikaluskas, Associate Professor Fredrick Misner, Associate Professor Jorma Sjöblom and Instructor Sherry Solomon.

Is OIL HEAT the BEST FOR YOUR HOME? Rudolph Krievs, Builder, Says YES!

This four-bedroom ranch home, soon to be completed, will use OIL HEAT. It is the fourth of the fine homes built by Mr. Krievs in the Overlook Heights area of Dutchess County—all oil heated, of course.

As in other Krievs-constructed homes, oil heat was chosen because he, and his customers, want the most economical, dependable and safe fuel.

"Oil-heated homes sell quicker because oil is the best heat, and home buyers know it! Today's new oil heating systems are so small, compact and efficient that they give the home owner more heat and more space, too, for his money", says Mr. Krievs.

If you are building a new home, or are disenchanted with another fuel, specify a modern oil-heating system. Your local heating oil supplier will be glad to give you all the facts.

The ABCs on Reapportionment for City of Kingston

EDITOR'S NOTE: It took almost two years but Kingston has finally been reapportioned according to the U. S. Supreme Court ruling of one man, one vote. Freeman readers are familiar with the reapportionment's battle in the courts but many probably are not sure of exactly what was accomplished. This four-part Freeman series beginning today will give background, maps and descriptions on each ward in the city.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

(First of four parts)

Thanks to reapportionment, Kingston as joined the computer age. We all have new numbers. New numbered wards, that is.

It all began in early 1965 when Harv M. Thayer and Robert E. Davis brought a citizen's suit against the city claiming it was not apportioned according to the one man, one vote ruling of the U. S. Supreme Court. Few disagreed with that but the problem of implementing that ruling led to a two-year fight in the courts.

No Wasted Time

The Common Council wasted no time in reapportioning itself after the initial order. A plan was presented to, and rejected by, Supreme Court Justice T. Paul Kane on Aug. 19, 1966. Kane ruled that the plan was illegal since a local and unofficial head count was used instead of the federal census of 1960.

Kane substituted his own plan calling for four districts with three aldermen running at large in three of them and a pair of aldermen at large in the fourth. This was appealed by City Corporation Counsel A. J. E. Klein on the grounds that the city was supposed to do the reapportioning, not a judge.

The Appellate Court overruled Kane on May 2, 1967 and 10 days later Kane ordered the city to once again reapportion. This time it was agreed that aldermen would run for one-year terms under the old apportionment. They would run again for another one-year term in November of this year under the new apportionment plan which was supposed to be ready by Dec. 31 of last year. It was three days late, being approved by the Common Council Dec. 22 and signed by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan Jan. 3, 1968.

Thayer and Davis, however, did not approve of the plan and took it to court (three times) in favor of an at-large plan. Judge Kane heard the Democratic plan Jan. 17 and approved it Jan. 29, noting that the at-large plan was, in effect, the absence of a plan.

Kane's fellow jurists agreed with him. The appellate court voted 5-0 on Feb. 23 in favor of the Dems. The state court of appeals voted 7-0 in favor on March 7.

One of the complaints against the Democratic plan was that if it were approved, everyone would have to re-register. This is not the case. The county board of elections will notify each registered voter as to what ward he now lives in and where he will vote.

Four Sections

The Freeman has divided the city into four sections for the purposes of this series. The first section is in the northwest section of the city and includes new wards One, Two, Three and Four. There were formerly either all or part of Wards One, Nine, Ten, 11 and 12. The 12th Ward has been split to comprise new Wards One and Two. The new Third Ward is mainly old Ward 11 while the First Ward and parts of the old Tenth Ward have been combined to form new Ward Four.

Former 12th Ward Alderman John Machione is now in new Ward Two. New Ward One will have to come up with candidates from both parties. That section of the city, for years a Republican stronghold, is expected to remain so.

Joseph Conlin (D-11th Ward) who replaced Raymond Armater, the Republican, in November, will be running in new Ward Three.

New Ward Four pits two aldermen against each other: Mrs. Florence Shea Ludlow (D-First Ward) and Peter Fisher (R-10th Ward). The parties switched in those two wards last year. Mrs. Ludlow beat incumbent Republican George Margolis while Fisher captured the ward for the Republicans after incumbent James Howard chose not to run. This particular section of the city could all go Republican as the GOP has a decided edge in registration. The following is the official description of ward boundaries for new Wards One, Two, Three and Four.

Official Description

TOMORROW: The southwest section of the city, which includes new Wards 11, 12 and line to a point in the center of 13. These were formerly Wards the Esopus Creek; thence along Eight, Nine, 11 and 13.

Powell Faces Hearing On Revoking of Parole

NEW YORK (AP) — Adam Raymond Rubin, the attorney, Clayton Powell has been ordered to show cause why his parole should not be revoked pending an appeal of his contempt conviction.

The court action today is one of three related hearings scheduled, but Powell, who dropped from public sight Monday after his weekend return to Harlem, is not required to appear personally for any of them.

Powell's whereabouts were not known, but he was reported to have gone back to his island retreat in Bimini, the Bahamas, last year since his expulsion from Congress.

The hearing on revoking parole was ordered by State Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Sarafite upon the application of an attorney for Mrs. Esther James, a Harlem widow who on a defamation suit against Powell.

Raymond Rubin, the attorney, granted the parole was unaware that a Puerto Rican court had issued an arrest order against Powell Wednesday for violating parole there.

Justice Arthur Markewich issued the parole Friday night after Powell agreed to a stipulation that he file an appeal within two weeks on a criminal contempt finding stemming from the defamation case.

Another hearing on the court calendar involves an inquest in which Mrs. James, who has been battling Powell in the courts for eight years, seeks to have him assessed for the costs involved in collecting the original defamation judgment.

A third hearing is on a motion Powell's attorney to have the court strike down three contempt rulings against his client James, a Harlem widow who on a defamation suit against Powell.

A Disenchanted Officer Quitting

SAIGON (AP) — A retired U.S. Army officer who spent more than four years in military and civilian posts in South Vietnam says he is quitting because, despite recent enemy successes, the United States is following "the same old policies."

Sidney J. Roche, a retired lieutenant colonel, said in a statement that he had hoped for "some change in policies" after the success of the Viet Cong Tet offensive.

"However," he said, "it appears that we are going to follow the same old road and pursue the same old policies."

While in the Army, Roche was on the staff of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam. Since leaving the service, he has been with the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID).

He was a field coordinator for the New Life (hamlet) Development program.

In his letter of resignation, Roche listed what he said were the primary reasons U.S. efforts to end the war are being frustrated.

Among other factors, he blamed corruption in the South Vietnamese government.

Hold Packing Stocks
For the Present

Q — I own Cudahy pfd, and have held it about 5 years. The dividends are in arrears for the same period. In checking, I find that U.S. Smelting has bought a large block of common. Since I am entitled to all the back dividends I just don't see selling. What do you advise? — M.B.

A — I advise you to sit tight for a while. There has been a great deal of interest aroused in the meat-packing stocks by Ling-Temco-Vought's acquisition of Wilson & Co. This was accentuated by the takeover of John Morrell & Co. by AMK Corp. It appears that some of these old-line packers are thoroughly depreciated and that the merger boys are going after them. Cudahy, on its present earnings figure, does not look too cheap, but I advise you to hold in the expectation that one of the conglomerates may become interested.

Q — I am 70 years old and I would appreciate your help and advice. Last year I bought Baxter Laboratories at 40 and it is down to 36. I also bought Vendo at 41½ and it is now to 24. I am worried, as I cannot afford to lose any money and don't know what to do — D.U.

A — I am very sorry that you are worried about your finances. All stocks fluctuate, which is the only trait they have in common. I don't believe you need to feel the slightest concern about Baxter growth characteristics. I believe the small decline here is due to market conditions which have been very poor since January. Vendo is a horse of another color. Sales and earnings were down last year due to softness in the vending machine business and I think recovery will be slow here. In your place I would take the loss and switch to Talon, which has had a splendid growth rate.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made a smart recovery move in fairly active trading early Tuesday.

Gains outstripped losses by more than 150 issues on the New York Stock Exchange. The exchange's index rose but the Dow Jones industrial average was off a fraction of a point because of a lagged performance by some industrial blue chips.

A Disenchanted Officer Quitting

SAIGON (AP) — A retired U.S. Army officer who spent more than four years in military and civilian posts in South Vietnam says he is quitting because, despite recent enemy successes, the United States is following "the same old policies."

Sidney J. Roche, a retired lieutenant colonel, said in a statement that he had hoped for "some change in policies" after the success of the Viet Cong Tet offensive.

"However," he said, "it appears that we are going to follow the same old road and pursue the same policies."

While in the Army, Roche was on the staff of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam. Since leaving the service, he has been with the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID).

He was a field coordinator for the New Life (hamlet) Development program.

In his letter of resignation, Roche listed what he said were the primary reasons U.S. efforts to end the war are being frustrated.

Among other factors, he blamed corruption in the South Vietnamese government.

Hold Packing Stocks
For the Present

Q — I own Cudahy pfd, and you are worried about your finances. All stocks fluctuate, which is the only trait they have in common. I don't believe you need to feel the slightest anxiety, which is in the health-care field with built-in growth characteristics. I believe the small decline here is due to market conditions which have been very poor since January. Vendo is a horse of another color. Sales and earnings were down last year due to softness in the vending machine business and I think recovery will be slow here. In your place I would take the loss and switch to Talon, which has had a splendid growth rate.

A — I advise you to sit tight for a while. There has been a great deal of interest aroused in the meat-packing stocks by Ling-Temco-Vought's acquisition of Wilson & Co. This was accentuated by the takeover of John Morrell & Co. by AMK Corp. It appears that some of these old-line packers are thoroughly depreciated and that the merger boys are going after them. Cudahy, on its present earnings figure, does not look too cheap, but I advise you to hold in the expectation that one of the conglomerates may become interested.

Q — I am 70 years old and I would appreciate your help and advice. Last year I bought Baxter Laboratories at 40 and it is down to 36. I also bought Vendo at 41½ and it is now 24. I am worried, as I cannot afford to lose any money and don't know what to do—D.U.

A — I am very sorry that

CDA to Hear Kretchmer Speak Wednesday Night

Assemblyman Jerome Kretchmer will be guest speaker at the Kingston Area Coalition for a Democratic Alternative kickoff meeting tomorrow. Kretchmer will address the audience on "The Importance of an Alternative to Lyndon Johnson" at the meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Garden Lounge of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The guest speaker currently represents the third Assembly District in Manhattan's west side. A native of the Bronx, he holds a degree from Columbia Law School and has been active for eight years in the Reform Democratic movement in New York City. He has served in the State Assembly since 1963 and, among his legislative achievements, has been the introduction of bills on a rehabilitation program for narcotics addicts, civil rights laws and middle income housing.

Gretchmer appeared in this area previously as a speaker at the Woodstock Democratic Club two years ago; proved then to be a forceful speaker with a liberal philosophy. Rated by the New York Times as "one of the most dynamic young men on the metropolitan Reform Democratic scene," he won his political spurs campaigning for the late President John F. Kennedy and fighting old-line Democratic leadership in his own district to win election and reelection to the Assembly by landslide vote of 7 to 1.

Other speakers at the CDA meeting here will be John Robinson, McCarthy for President organizer from Springfield, Mass.; Vassar College professor Curt Beck, of the concerned Democrats of Dutchess County; and attorney William Mullaney of Kingston. The public is invited to attend and supporters of both Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Sen. Robert Kennedy for President, are urged to join in the session which will see the formation of a steering committee in Kingston.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made a smart recovery move in fairly active trading early Tuesday.

Gains outstripped losses by more than 150 issues on the New York Stock Exchange. The exchange's index rose but the Dow Jones industrial average was off a fraction of a point because of a laggard performance by some industrial blue chips.

Bird Watchers Field Venture Set Saturday

The John Burroughs Natural History Society will sponsor a field trip to the Ashokan Reservoir Saturday to observe waterfowl and land birds in the area. Those interested may join the group 8:30 a. m. at the Aeration Basin. Fred Hough of Accord will be trip leader. The next field trip will be along the Rondout Creek near High Falls Bridge April 7. Details will be announced.

Tumble Doll

The first tumble doll was an image of Buddha, a Chinese god. Such dolls were weighted at the bottom, for the Chinese believed Buddha could not fall.

FLOWER WINNER — Susan McCord, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. McCord of 26 Roosevelt Avenue, won the prize of a bouquet of flowers once a month for a year sponsored by The Carriage House at the grand opening of the flower and gift shop March 15. William Krawetz, general manager, left, presents the flowers to Susan, a student at Kingston High School. Co-owner T. Robert Gallo, Kingston alderman-at-large, was also on hand. He is a partner with Thomas R. Lyle, city clerk, in the Albany Avenue shop. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Nine Bolt Nevada Prison, Five Captured

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Nine prisoners, including one awaiting trial on a murder charge, broke out of the Washoe County Jail early today after beating a jailer and taking his pistol. Five were recaptured before daybreak. The sheriff's office said one of the four at large was armed when he left the jail. Among the escapees was David Wayne Rice, 28, of Memphis, Tenn., charged with murder in the death of Violet Irene Olson, 61, of Sacramento, Calif. The woman's partially decomposed body was found last June between Reno and Virginia City, Nev. The body of her dog was found beside her. In addition to Rice, the others at large were Richard Paul Elliott, 28, held on a kidnapping charge; William Keith Morris, 23, charged with receiving stolen property; and Dennis Raymond O'Shea, 18, charged with statutory rape.

1,600 Attend Teenage Rally

About 1,600 persons attended the Saturday night teenage drug presentation given by David Wilkerson, at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium. Author of the "Cross and the Switchblade" and many other books dealing with his work in rehabilitating drug addicts, Wilkerson is also the founder and director of Teen Challenge, a center for rehabilitation with branches in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico. An ordained minister, Wilkerson lists among his books, "Parents on Trial" and "Twelve Angels From Hell." Residents of the Ulster and Dutchess County area are invited to attend weekly programs at the Rhinebeck Teen Challenge Center on River Road, Rhinebeck. The event takes place on Friday nights at 7:30 with those attending afforded opportunity to talk with ex-addicts, listen to formal talks, attend services and have refreshments.

GOT SPRING FEVER?

If so, you need a remedy! How about a leisurely Weekend Trip — on the Town — ON US?

KINGSTON UPTOWN BUSINESSMEN'S ASSOC.

IS GIVING A

FREE WEEKEND FOR 2 IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

To be awarded Saturday, March 30, 1968

REGISTER WITH ANY MEMBER of Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association, displaying official "Spring Fever" poster. Nothing to buy! Not necessary to be present for drawing. You must be 18 years of age or older to register. On the town weekends include hotel, food and transportation costs. Trips must be used by May 25, 1968.

We owe you money.

Take a look around.

You may have lots of Returnable Bottles for Coca-Cola, Tab and Fresca just sitting around.

We owe you money on these bottles. . . that's why we call them "Money-Back" Bottles.

You can collect it now at your favorite store. One lady in New Jersey found $4.08 worth of bottles in her cellar and garage.

The demand for Coke, Fresca and Tab is always great because the quality of these products can't be matched. The demand is unusually high these days because of the recent glass industry strike, and because Returnable Bottles are your best buy.

Returnable Bottles are more economical for us . . . and more economical for you (you pay more for major brand soft drinks in non-returnable bottles).

So do yourself a favor. Return our "Money-Back" Bottles so we'll have plenty of Coke, Tab and Fresca for you.

And, pick up the money we owe you.

Bird Watchers Field Venture Set Saturday

The John Burroughs Natural History Society will sponsor a field trip to the Ashokan Reservoir Saturday to observe waterfowl and land birds in the area. Those interested may join the group 8:30 a. m. at the Aeration Basin. Fred Hough of Accord will be trip leader. The next field trip will be along the Rondout Creek near High Falls Bridge April 7. Details will be announced.

Tumble Doll

The first tumble doll was an image of Buddha, a Chinese god. Such dolls were weighted at the bottom, for the Chinese believed Buddha could not fall.

FLOWER WINNER — Susan McCord, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. McCord of 26 Roosevelt Avenue, won the prize of a bouquet of flowers once a month for a year sponsored by The Carriage House at the grand opening of the flower and gift shop March 15. William Krawetz, general manager, left, presents the flowers to Susan, a student at Kingston High School. Co-owner T. Robert Gallo, Kingston alderman-at-large, was also on hand. He is a partner with Thomas R. Lyle, city clerk, in the Albany Avenue shop. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Nine Bolt Nevada Prison, Five Captured

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Nine men, including one awaiting trial on a murder charge, broke out of the Washoe County Jail early today after beating a jailer and taking his pistol. Five were recaptured before day-break. The sheriff's office said one of the four at large was armed when he left the jail. Among the escapees was David Olson, 61, of Sacramento, Calif. The woman's partially decomposed body was found last June between Reno and Virginia City, Nev. The body of her dog was found beside her. In addition to Rice, the others at large were Richard Paul Elliott, 28, held on a kidnapping charge; William Keith Morris, 23, charged with receiving stolen property, and Dennis Raymond O'Shea, 18, charged with statutory rape.

First Coed College

Oberlin College, established in 1833 in Ohio, which state today has more colleges and universities per capita than any other state in the Union, was the nation's first coeducational college, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

1,600 Attend Teenage Rally

About 1,600 persons attended the Saturday night teenage drug presentation given by David Wilkerson, at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium. Author of the "Cross and the Switchblade" and many other books dealing with his work in rehabilitating drug addicts, Wilkerson is also the founder and director of Teen Challenge, a center for rehabilitation with branches in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico. An ordained minister, Wilkerson lists among his books, "Parents on Trial" and "Twelve Angels From Hell." Residents of the Ulster and Dutchess County area are invited to attend weekly programs at the Rhinebeck Teen Challenge Center on River Road, Rhinebeck. The event takes place on Friday nights at 7:30 with those attending afforded opportunity to talk with ex-addicts, listen to formal talks, attend services and have refreshments.

IS GIVING A

FREE WEEKEND FOR 2 IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

To be awarded Saturday, March 30, 1968

REGISTER WITH ANY MEMBER of Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association, displaying official "Spring Fever" poster. Nothing to buy! Not necessary to be present for drawing. You must be 18 years of age or older to register. On the town weekends include hotel, food and transportation costs. Trips must be used by May 25, 1968.

We owe you money.

Take a look around.

You may have lots of Returnable Bottles for Coca-Cola, Tab and Fresca just sitting around.

We owe you money on these bottles. . . that's why we call them "Money-Back" Bottles.

You can collect it now at your favorite store. One lady in New Jersey found $4.08 worth of bottles in her cellar and garage.

The demand for Coke, Fresca and Tab is always great because the quality of these products can't be matched. The demand is unusually high these days because of the recent glass industry strike, and because Returnable Bottles are your best buy.

Returnable Bottles are more economical for us . . . and more economical for you (you pay more for major brand soft drinks in non-returnable bottles).

So do yourself a favor. Return our "Money-Back" Bottles so we'll have plenty of Coke, Tab and Fresca for you.

And, pick up the money we owe you.

Founder of Schweitzer Fund Is Speaker

Dr. Marion Mill Preminger will address the Woman's Club of Saugerties on Thursday evening, March 28, 1968 at 8:15 in the Dutch Arms Chapel of the Saugerties Reformed Church.

Dr. Preminger was born in Arad, Hungary and was educated at the Pious School of Plarist Fathers, Arad; and received her Ph.D. from the University of Vienna, music degree, Delcroze School, Hellerau, Austria; and the Sorbonne, Paris. She became the wife of Otto Preminger, famed Hollywood director-producer and lived in one of the most beautiful homes in Hollywood, but suddenly the excitement of this life without purpose became monotonous and she left the glamorous life of the movies and TV in the early 1950's and devoted ten years of her life in the African Jungle Hospital of Dr. Albert Schweitzer. She was the founder of the Albert Schweitzer Hospital Fund and is currently president of the Albert Schweitzer Foundation. While she was in Africa she devoted herself to those suffering from Hansen's disease and to the hospital itself. One of her favorite topics is about Dr. Schweitzer and his "reverence for life" philosophy. Her articles about the Grand Doctor in The American Society of Honor Magazine entitled "I Will Never See His Grave" is a beautiful and moving piece of literature. Although Dr. Preminger has no children of her own she has adopted 26 African children. She is an expert on African woman's rights.

Dr. Preminger is known as a lecturer. Her autobiography,

"All I Want Is Everything" has been translated into several languages. Her book about Charles de Poucauld, "The Sands of Tamarassat", won the Christopher Award. Thornton Wilder, the Pulitzer prize-winning author dedicated his play, "The Alcestiad", to her.

The Hon. Dr. Preminger is a Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor and holds the distinction of being the first woman to be appointed as a Grand Officer of the Equatorial Star, the highest African Award. She is also the recipient of the Republic of Gabon's Grand Medal of Reconnaissance. The Golden Heart Award was presented to her for her hospital work "performed regardless of race, color or creed." All of Dr. Preminger's awards are too numerous to mention. Notes taken from Who's Who in American Women, cover an entire typewritten page. She is on the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped; Board member on the People to People Program; Trustee of the Religious Heritage of America, Actor's Equity Association, Author's Guild, Author's League; American National Theatre Association; American Society for African Culture to name just a few of her many commitments in her full and busy life.

Dr. Preminger is now married to Dr. Albert Mayer, philanthropist and urban designer. Their Park Avenue apartment harbors a treasure trove of European furnishings and objects d'art, including a collection of primitive African Art that is said to be the best in New York.

DR. MARION PREMINGER, pictured here with the late Francis Cardinal Spellman when he celebrated his 75th birthday at the Waldorf Astoria in New York, will be a guest speaker for the Woman's Club of Saugerties on Thursday, March 28. Her book, "The Sands of Tamarassat" was dedicated to Cardinal Spellman. It is the story of Father de Poucauld, a French missionary to the Sahara who died in North Africa in 1916.

Former Glasco Resident Named Runner-up; Miss Hope Contest

Miss Theresa Spada, "Miss Hope-1968," Dutchess County, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Spada of Glasco, was first runner-up in the New York State Miss Hope contest which was held Thursday, Mar. 21, at Statler-Hilton Hotel, Buffalo. Winner of the contest, sponsored by American Cancer Society, New York State Division, Public Information Committee, was Miss Maureen P. Tully of Albany County. Second runner-up was Miss Susan M. Cook of Orleans.

Representing Ulster County as Miss Hope 1968 was Miss Nancy Davis, daughter of John Davis of Saugerties. The full day schedule included a tour of Roswell Park

Memorial Institute. The crusade kickoff took place in the afternoon with Bob Carson, noted television celebrity, acting as master of ceremonies. A reception was held from 6 to 7 p.m. after which a banquet took place in the Golden Ballroom of the hotel. Lawrence Welk, national chairman, 1968 Cancer Crusade, was the honored guest at the banquet.

At the three-tiered head table were county executives; the Mayor; Auxiliary Bishop Plus A. Benincasa, Buffalo diocese; numerous doctors and cured cancer patients. Mrs. Patricia Yaeger from New Paltz represented Ulster County as one of the cured cancer patients.

Numerous gifts were presented to Miss Hope 1968 and her runnersup, including a four weeks scholarship at Roswell Park Memorial Institute.

Miss Spada, a graduate of Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing, Class of 1963, is employed as a head nurse at Vassar Brothers Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

At the Markets

Milk and Dairy Products—Production of milk is beginning to increase seasonally and will continue to rise to a peak in May and June. Supplies of most milk and dairy products are expected to continue in excess of demand. There will be plenty of fluid milk available as well as American cheese, butter, cottage cheese, ice cream and other dairy products. Dairy products offer good value in nutrition as well as good eating. They go well with other foods and are versatile.

Fishery Products—The weather has been good for fishing lately so supplies are moderate. Fishing operations are beginning to show their usual seasonal upswing with slowly increasing supplies. Shoppers will find their most likely low-cost choices from among cod and cod fillets, croakers, gray sole and yellow tail flounders, King mackerel, mullet and striped bass. North Carolina scallops remain moderate in cost as do hard clams.

Meats—There is little new in the meat situation. Marketing of beef and pork are up a little from a year ago. Pork prices have been declining the past two weeks. Marketings of turkey have been running six to eight per cent higher than a year ago, a reflection of the trend to year around marketing and consumption of turkeys. Cold storage holdings of turkey are about one-third greater than a year ago. Prices are reasonable.

Fruits—This is the season for imported fruits and, quite predictably, Chile is sending to local markets large shipments of honeydew and Spanish melons. Check the prices, they are generally reasonable. Supplies of bananas are off some from a year ago and you may find prices a little higher than usual. Oranges and grapefruit continue as low-cost choices.

Vegetables—Marketings of fresh vegetables during the next few weeks will be down from last year. Production of carrots is down 22 per cent from last year; onions, down 17 per cent; tomatoes, off 20 per cent; and all vegetables down nine per cent. Higher prices may result.

Importance of Women In Crime Prevention

The Importance of Women in Crime Prevention will be the focus of a statewide conference being held here Monday, April 22, under the sponsorship of the State Council of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency in cooperation with the College of General Studies of the State University of New York at Albany and the Women's Unit of the Office of Secretary to the Governor.

Objective of the Conference is to interest women in taking action in their own communities to improve crime prevention facilities and to develop broader programs for rehabilitation.

Women from throughout the state have been invited to hear leading authorities in the fields of social services, criminology and rehabilitation and to discuss what women can do to stop and control crime.

The morning session will be held in the Red Room of the State Capitol where participants will be welcomed by Governor Rockefeller. The Honorable Caroline K. Simon, Judge of the Court of Claims, will be keynote speaker. The morning session will include a panel discussion designed to give specific direction. Panelists will be Richard J. Bartlett, chairman, New York State Crime Control Council; Richard W. Pierce, chairman, New York State Narcotic Addiction Control Commission; and Mrs. Mary B. Tarcher, assistant attorney-in-chief of the Legal Aid Society of New York City and in charge of the Civil Division. Daniel Gutman, dean, New York Academy of the Judiciary, will be the Moderator.

The afternoon session will be held at the Campus of the State University of New York at Albany. Following a luncheon at the University Campus, John L. Cox II, of the Westchester County Committee of the NCCD will discuss You as a Volunteer. Guests will then divide up into discussion groups with a leader and a resource person for a substantive dialogue on community involvement.

The Conference will close with remarks by Mrs. Sydney M. Spector, chairman of the New York State Council of NCCD, and Kitty Carlisle Hart, Special Consultant to the Governor for the Women's Unit.

Mrs. Sydney M. Spector, a resident of Scarsdale, N. Y., is chairman of the program committee for the Conference. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Mary Barnett, College of General Studies of the State University of New York at Albany, and Miss Nina Jones, Director of the Women's Unit in the Office of the Secretary to the Governor.

Smith-Wilson Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Smith of 106 Jefferson Avenue, Catskill, announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith M. to Fred A. Wilson Jr., formerly of Detroit, Mich., and now of Catskill.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Goodrich of East Durham and Catskill. She is a graduate of Catskill High School and is employed as secretary to Lloyd A. Newcombe, vice president of Amos Post, Inc. and former State Senator of the 43rd District.

Wilson is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson of Detroit, Mich., and is employed as parts manager of the Newcombe Cadillac Pontiac Corporation in Catskill.

'Stop the World' Here On April 4; Tickets

Tickets have been placed on sale at the Community Theatre box-office for the next stage attraction. It is the Broadway musical hit, "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off," which will be presented for a single performance on Thursday, April 4. Curtain time is set at 8:30 p.m. The theatre management said that since the announcement about the show, requests for tickets have been pouring in.

The star of the musical is Jackie Warner, who fills the role held down on Broadway by Anthony Newley, the triple threat theatrical wizard who wrote the book, assisted in writing the lyrics, and performed as actor, dancer, singer in the show.

Warner's lady-love in "Stop the World" is Katie Anders, whose statuesque beauty is exactly six feet high.

The box-office at the Community theatre opens daily at 1 p.m. for ticket sales and telephone reservations. Tickets will also be on sale at Sears-Roebuck.

Announce Wedding

Miss Colette Maria Altenu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Altenu, 25 Bennett Avenue, Saugerties, was married to Pvt. Robert Scott Vanderveck Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vanderveck, 50 Appletree Drive, Saugerties, on Saturday, Mar. 16, at St. Mary of the Snow Church, Saugerties.

The Rev. Joseph F. Hamilton officiated at the double ring ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. Mrs. Charles Dickman, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. White and yellow roses decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white imported Swiss brocade floor length gown, styled in the A-line fashion and featuring bell shaped long sleeves and a full length train fastened with two roses. A French illusion veil was attached to a large rose. The dress and veil were fashioned and made by the bride.

Miss Christine Callahan, Kingston, was maid of honor. She wore a gold brocade, A-line floor length gown styled with elbow length sleeves. A gold brocade rose headpiece was fastened to a veil and was also made by the bride.

Henry Vanderveck, Saugerties, was best man for his brother.

After the wedding a reception was given at the home of the bride.

For her wedding trip to New York and Colorado Springs, Colo., the bride selected a two-piece royal blue knit suit imported from Italy, and white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Saugerties High School and State University of New York at Cobleskill where she was a member of Phi Beta Lambda sorority. Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, was employed with R. S. Vanderveck, contractor, before entering the U.S. Army.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I read a note in your column about putting a footlet over a cup of mixed dye to strain it.

Here's my way:

I cut the foot off a nylon stocking to make a little bag and put the dry dye into the toe part and knot the cut end. I then dip it in the hot water until it's dissolved. There's no chance of any granules ruining my clothes.

So there! I finally wrote to Heloise, too...

Pearl D. Sure glad you did, honey pie, 'cause I'd never heard of that trick before.

Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

You know those stickers we use on envelopes for return addresses?

Well, I was at a party the other day and we were all introduced to a very charming lady, but alas, her name was very difficult to pronounce and even more difficult to spell.

So she opened her purse and handed each of us one of her name stickers. Furthermore, she suggested that we paste it in our address book.

Now, I carry my own name and address stickers in my purse for just such an occasion as she "conquered."

Another thing, when one is making a donation of cake or flowers to the church bazaar, the easiest way to reclaim the vase or cake plate is to paste one of these stickers on the under side of your container.

I always put a covering of cellophane tape over the sticker just to be sure someone doesn't wash it off.

Beatrice Marvin

Dear Heloise:

My family dearly loves home-cooked puddings. So quite often I make it with powdered non-fat dry milk.

In order to keep it from scorching, I measure and heat the water, then add my measured dry milk to the dry ingredients and stir them thoroughly. Then I slowly pour the dry mix into the scalding water.

This saves many a scorched milk pan and also puddings.

Alice H.

You could also put your pudding powder and dry milk in a BIG pan first. Then add a little liquid to make a thin paste and SLOWLY pour the boiling water into the pudding mixture. It thickens even quicker.

Heloise

Tarcher, assistant attorney-in-chief of the Legal Aid Society of New York City and in charge of the Civil Division, Daniel Gutman, dean, New York Academy of the Judiciary, will be the Moderator.

The afternoon session will be held at the Campus of the State University of New York at Albany. Following a luncheon at the University Campus, John L. Cox II, of the Westchester County Committee of the NCCD will discuss You as a Volunteer. Guests will then divide up into discussion groups with a leader and a resource person for a substantive dialogue on community involvement.

The Conference will close with remarks by Mrs. Sydney M. Spector, chairman of the New York State Council of NCCD, and Kitty Carlisle Hart, Special Consultant to the Governor for the Women's Unit.

Mrs. Sydney M. Spector, a resident of Scarsdale, N. Y., is chairman of the program committee for the Conference. Co-chairman are Mrs. Mary Barnett, College of General Studies of the State University of New York at Albany, and Miss Nina Jones, Director of the Women's Unit in the Office of the Secretary to the Governor.

'Stop the World' Here On April 4; Tickets

Tickets have been placed on sale at the Community Theatre box-office for the next stage attraction. It is the Broadway musical hit, "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off," which will be presented for a single performance on Thursday, April 4. Curtain time is set at 8:30 p.m.

The theatre management said that since the announcement about the show, requests for tickets have been pouring in.

The star of the musical is Jackie Warner, who fills the role held down on Broadway by Anthony Newley, the triple threat theatrical wizard who wrote the book, assisted in writing the lyrics, and performed as actor, dancer, singer in the show.

Warner's lady-love in "Stop the World" is Katie Anders, whose statuesque beauty is exactly six feet high.

The box-office at the Community theatre opens daily at 1 p.m. for ticket sales and telephone reservations. Tickets will also be on sale at Sears-Robuck.

Color Runs Riot on Cruise Fashion Scene

By BOB COCHNAR
NEA Menswear Specialist

SOMEWHERE IN THE CARIBBEAN — (NEA) — What with the winter holiday season going full bore, it's appropriate to discuss the basic wardrobe one might take aboard an island-hopping cruise — an increasingly popular way to sun and fun.

I'm writing this column comfortably enveloped in a deck chair on the veranda of the SS France, billed as the longest floating hotel in the world. The France, like many ships built basically for the Atlantic crossing, spends a placid winter in the clear, blue waters of the Caribbean ferrying a thousand or so passengers from one happy island to another.

Clothes are an important part of the voyage. Since the passenger can take practically every item in his closet with him, life aboard ship very often becomes something akin to a 24-hour-a-day fashion show with everybody a participant.

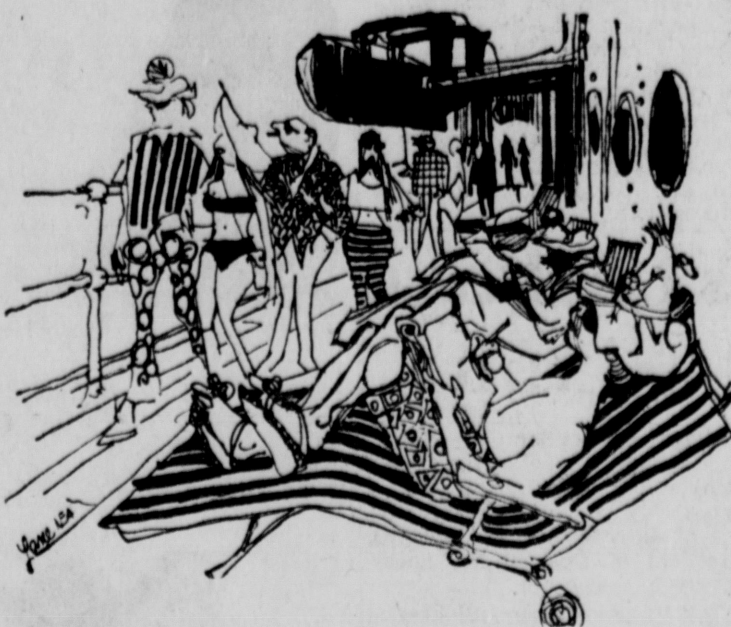

First, there's the formal evenings to consider. When the ship's at sea, black tie is the traditional uniform.

And no longer do men confine themselves to one black formal suit with perhaps a white dinner jacket to break away from the routine.

It's not at all unusual for a gentleman to wear at least three colorful jackets as well as a black tuxedo during the course of a three-week trip. After all, most women pack enough evening gowns and formal frocks for a complete change daily. The men are matching them item for item.

Men are no longer chary of donning colorful gear, either.

I saw one chap during his morning constitutional somewhere between Martinique and Barbados clad in a brilliant pink slacks, green and gold shirt, blue canvas shoes, red socks and a silly white hat with a pompon. The outfit was a bit much but it does indicate that men are at least experimenting.

"Some of the outfits that paraded past my chair were a bit much."

Ashore, passengers made no effort to blend into the environment. Walk shorts, golf shirts and comfortable shoes were fairly common. And slacks in every color from flaming orange to muted caramel adorned rapidly pinkening men.

Informal evenings aboard brought out, in the main, carefully chosen ensembles. Double-breasted blazers and suits. European-styled suits with nipped-in waists and deep side vents in a wide range of colors were visible.

In the dining rooms, where the management of the France still retains a modicum of traditional conservatism (shorts aren't allowed), men would first drop into their staterooms for a quick change from swim suit to slacks and jacket with turtle-neck sweater or ascot tie.

But the ship makes one concession: A noon on-deck buffet caters to those who prefer to stay in sun-and-swim togs.

"With the exception of week-ends, I get to wear only one suit a day at home. Aboard ship, I can wear at least three or four outfits. And why not? It adds to the fun."

For men contemplating a cruise, here's a handy wardrobe checklist:

FORMAL WEAR: 1 black dinner suit, 2 or 3 dinner jackets, 3 formal shirts, 2 tie-your-own bowties, studs, links, evening shoes, cummerbund, formal vest.

DAYTIME AT SEA: Walk shorts, colorful slacks, polo shirt, colorful slacks, polo shirt, colorful slacks, polo shirt, colorful slacks, polo shirt.

shirts, sport shirts, turtle-necks, deck shoes, sandals.

DAYTIME WEAR ON THE SHORE: Swimsuits, blazer, light weight sweater, white duck slacks, walk shorts, sport shirts, several ascot ties.

INFORMAL EVENING WEAR: 3 lightweight suits, 6 long-sleeved dress shirts, 6 ties, black or brown slip-on shoes.

Since your stateroom aboard is your permanent room for the cruise, the best clothes-carrier is an old-fashioned steamer trunk rather than a half-dozen small pieces of luggage. It's much more romantic, anyway.

West Hurley School Exhibit Tonight

A science and math exhibit will be held at the West Hurley School tonight at 7:30 o'clock with the grades kindergarten through third setting up their work in the cafeteria. The exhibit, sponsored by the West Hurley P.T.A., was planned by the members of the science curriculum committee, including Mr. Biersch, Mr. Smith, Miss Landers, Miss O'Sullivan, and Mrs. Levins.

An additional highlight of the evening will be a sale of baked goods, the proceeds of which will enhance the sixth grade graduation celebration. Sixth grade mothers working on the bake sale, which will be held in the lobby during the exhibit, are Pat Gray, Doris Cady, Harriet Anthony, Grace Guendell, Muriel Burlingham, Janet Peters, and Jo Klonfas. Sixth grade graduation chairman Nancy Brooks announces that there will be a meeting of all sixth graders' parents on Tuesday evening, April 2, at 8 p.m. at the school to form committees for the graduation. All are urged to attend.

Senior Questionnaire To Be Published Soon

A 12-item questionnaire, aimed toward gathering information on problems that may be confronting the Senior Citizens of Kingston and the surrounding area, will appear soon in the Kingston Daily Freeman according to Alexander Yosman, coordinator of the Senior Citizens' Advisory Council.

Yosman explained that the questionnaire represents an effort on the part of the council to better understand the needs of the senior citizens, such as transportation problems and the availability of medical care. It is urged that all residents of the area will encourage relatives, friends and neighbors of the senior citizen group to fill in this questionnaire and that it be returned to the Senior Citizens' Advisory Council, c/o Kingston Housing Authority.

A summarization of the data from the questionnaire will point up the problems that the community at large is not aware of and form a base for some action into the existing situations, Yosman indicated. It is hoped that a summary of the information gained from the completed questionnaire will indicate the number of senior citizens in the area, their problems and needs, which then could be used as a guide for any programs of assistance that could be instituted.

Without knowing how many people are affected, Yosman added, aid to the situation is nearly impossible. He said that the council could not approach the community or other agencies for assistance in problems without knowing how many people are involved. Yosman stressed that all completed questionnaires received will be kept confidential and though the council will make every effort to answer each questionnaire individually, the questionnaire is primarily designed to summarize the community needs in relation to transportation, social activities, medical needs or any problems of the senior citizen.

A reminder is also issued that

GOP Forms Coalition To Defeat Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fledgling National Coalition for a Republican Alternative hopes to bring to the surface one of what its top organizer calls an "invisible quartet" of potential presidential candidates.

The new organization of moderate Republicans, whipped together in 48 hours over last weekend, has pushed its contacts into 25 states. But it is operating without a candidate.

And it is under express orders from its chief sponsor, Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., not to get itself tagged as a "anti" movement against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

However, Nixon's name was not among those listed by Duff candidate in either Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois or Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon—not necessarily in that order.

All these are noncandidates at this point, although Percy is in line to become Illinois' favorite son.

Reed said the coalition already has sufficient pledges of financial and political support to keep expanding its operations up to the time of the Republican National Convention in Miami, Fla., in August.

He said some of the politicians who back the organization's objectives of getting a candidate and a platform moderates can support will have to remain underground because they are personally involved in the choice of convention delegates.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told an informal news conference Monday he is puzzled about the coalition's objectives. He indicated he doesn't think the group can surface a candidate, although he made it clear he doesn't think Nixon has the nomination locked up at this point.

Asked about Rockefeller, who has said he is not an active candidate but would accept a draft, Dirksen said that "breathing life into a potential candidate who started out with vigorous support of another candidate, belatedly came into the picture himself and then bowed out, presents a problem to get any steam up for him again."

But the Illinois senator, observing it's nearly five months until the convention, noted it didn't take that long for Wendell L. Willkie to come from political nowhere to win the GOP nomination in 1940.

SNOW SCULPTURE — A snow sculpture caricature of President Johnson made by Bobby Jordan, 20, in Cincinnati, O., lasted barely 24 hours. Begun Monday when the temperature was in the upper 20's, the 5½ hours of work presented this face this afternoon as the thermometer reached 60 degrees and neighborhood children stood around fanning the bust to keep it cool. Fifth on Faculty

Ulster Academy Appointment

The fifth in a series of appointments to the faculty of Ulster Academy was announced today by Headmaster Raymond A. Nelson. Miss Margaret N. Wilber, now teaching at the Knox School, St. James, L. I., has been appointed master of classical studies. She will teach Latin and ancient history in the integrated humanities program offered by the academy.

Ulster Academy will hold an open house for interested families and the public at the academy's facilities, the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing, 105 Mary's Avenue, Kingston, at 8 p.m. Friday, March 29. The open house will provide an opportunity for prospective students and their families to tour the school and meet the headmaster and members of the faculty. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Wilber, a native of Princeton, N. J., is a graduate of Miss Fine's School, now in history with secondary study Pearl Street.

MARGARET N. WILBER

in Latin and Classical Archaeology.

She took a master's degree in history at the University of Michigan, became interested in Middle Eastern studies and took up the study of Arabic, which she has pursued for three years. In the summer of 1956 she studied at the University of Cairo in Egypt. In response to the National Advisory Commission Report on Civil Disorder, she recently cancelled summer plans for study at the Goethe Institute in West Germany and will spend the summer working for Upward Bound.

She earlier taught in special programs for crippled children, in which her skills in ceramic were of great therapeutic value. She has interested herself in all forms of art, ceramics and pottery in particular, and has worked with the students of the Knox School in this area.

Ulster Academy opens in September, offering grades seven through 10, in the Benedictine School of Nursing building. The Bryn Mawr College, majoring Academy office is now at 17 in history with secondary study Pearl Street.

France Asking Parley On Real Gold System

BRUSSELS (AP) — With three days until the Stockholm conference that seeks final accord on "paper gold" as international credit, France called today for a conference to create a monetary system ruled by real gold.

"France, however, was completely isolated," Dutch Finance Minister Hendrik Witteveen said after French Finance Minister Michel Debre argued his point at a dinner here Monday night.

Drawing Rights Not Answer Debre told his colleagues from the Common Market countries that special drawing rights on the International Monetary Fund were not a solution to the world monetary crisis. The drawing rights are called "paper gold."

Debre said that instead, the official price of gold should be raised and a new monetary system set up with gold supreme. A conference should be convened, he declared, "to make all currencies juridically equal."

President Charles de Gaulle, whose government has left the international gold pool, hoarded gold and warred against the U.S. dollar as a reserve currency, has demanded a return to the simple gold system.

Replying to Debre Monday night, however, Italian Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo and West German Economics Minister Karl Schiller said the two-price gold market and the system of drawing rights could function quite well.

Under the two-price system, central banks back their nations' currencies with gold at $35 an ounce and the public deals in a market where the price varies with supply and demand.

In Rio de Janeiro last September France agreed with her five Common Market partners, the United States, Japan, Sweden and Canada, to cut down on the role of gold and create the drawing rights to provide reader currency for world trade.

If the drawing rights system is finally approved in Stockholm by the 10 richest non-Communist countries it could usher in a new epoch in international payments in which gold's role would diminish. Sponsors of the "paper gold" system argue that it would be easier to control than the dynamic gold market and would ensure a growth of world currency resources needed for the expansion of trade.

Heated Wrangle Due At Stockholm a heated wrangle is expected between France, represented by Debre, and the United States represented by Treasury Secretary Henry M. Fowler. Italy and West Germany have been cast by some experts in the role of mediators. "We still hope on Thursday evening in Stockholm to convince France of the necessity for special drawing rights," Witteveen said.

The Dutch finance minister said he felt France could not pull out of the basic agreement on drawing rights reached in Rio last fall. In Witteveen's opinion, France may go along with the system at Stockholm once she realizes she will be isolated there as well.

France may agree, he said, "but on condition that she can opt out." One big issue is the determination of the point at which a country that disapproves of drawing rights can refuse to take part in the system.

If approved, the new system is expected to come into operation next year at the earliest. The reserve fund would amount to a relatively modest $400 million the first year, but the drawing rights are intended to increase each year afterwards.

Dutchess Historic Survey to Be Topic

Mrs. Arlene Bondas, public information officer of Dutchess County Planning Department, will be guest speaker at the next regular meeting of the Rhinebeck Historical Society 8 p.m. Friday at Morton Memorial Library, Rhinecliff.

Senior Questionnaire To Be Published Soon

A 12-item questionnaire aimed toward gathering information on problems that may be confronting the Senior Citizens of Kingston and the surrounding area, will appear soon in the Kingston Daily Freeman according to Alexander Yosman, coordinator of the Senior Citizens' Advisory Council.

Yosman explained that the questionnaire represents an effort on the part of the council to better understand the needs of the senior citizens, such as transportation problems and the availability of medical care. It is urged that all residents of the area will encourage relatives, friends and neighbors of the senior citizen group to fill in this questionnaire and that it be returned to the Senior Citizens' Advisory Council, c/o Kingston Housing Authority.

A summarization of the data from the questionnaire will point up the problems that the community at large is not aware of and form a base for some action into the existing situations, Yosman indicated. It is hoped that a summary of the information gained from the completed questionnaire will indicate the number of senior citizens in the area, their problems and needs, which then could be used as a guide for any programs of assistance that could be instituted.

Without knowing how many people are affected, Yosman added, aid to the situation is nearly impossible. He said that the council could not approach the community or other agencies for assistance in problems without knowing how many people are involved. Yosman stressed that all completed questionnaires received will be kept confidential and though the council will make every effort to answer each questionnaire individually, the questionnaire is primarily designed to summarize the community needs in relation to transportation, social activities, medical needs or any problems of the senior citizen.

A reminder is also issued that the "Buddy Cards" for Senior Citizens are available at Kingston banks. These cards, which have been initiated by the Council, are provided through the cooperation of the Kingston Area Financial Council.

Negotiations are under way with the Walter Reade Theater Chain to provide monthly breakfast theater parties as well as having senior citizens admitted to any performance at a reduced rate.

GOP Forms Coalition To Defeat Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fledgling National Coalition for a Republican Alternative hopes to bring to the surface one of what its top organizer calls an "invisible quartet" of potential presidential candidates.

The new organization of moderate Republicans, whipped together in 48 hours over last weekend, has pushed its contacts into 25 states. But it is operating without a candidate.

And it is under express orders from its chief sponsor, Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., not to get itself tagged as an "anti-movement" against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

However, Nixon's name was not among those listed by Duff Reed, Morton's aid and chief organizer, as making up the "invisible quartet."

Reed said in an interview the group hopes to wind up with a candidate in either Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois or Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon—not necessarily in that order.

All these are noncandidates at this point, although Percy is in line to become Illinois' favorite son.

Reed said the coalition already has sufficient pledges of financial and political support to keep expending its operations up to the time of the Republican National Convention in Miami, Fla., in August.

He said some of the politicians who back the organization's objectives of getting a candidate and a platform moderates can support will have to remain underground because they are personally involved in the choice of convention delegates.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told an informal news conference Monday he is puzzled about the coalition's objectives. He indicated he doesn't think the group can surface a candidate, although he made it clear he doesn't think Nixon has the nomination locked up at this point.

Asked about Rockefeller, who has said he is not an active candidate but would accept a draft, Dirksen said that "breathing life into a potential candidate who started out with vigorous support of another candidate, belatedly came into the picture himself and then bowed out, presents a problem to get any steam up for him again."

But the Illinois senator, observing it's nearly five months until the convention, noted it didn't take that long for Wendell L. Willkie to come from political nowhere to win the GOP nomination in 1940.

SNOW SCULPTURE — A snow sculpture caricature of President Johnson made by Bobby Jordan, 20, in Cincinnati, O., lasted barely 24 hours. Begun Monday when the temperature was in the upper 20's, the 5½ hours of work presented this face this afternoon as the thermometer reached 60 degrees and neighborhood children stood around fanning the bust to keep it cool. Fifth on Faculty

The fifth in a series of appointments to the faculty of Ulster Academy was announced today by Headmaster Raymond A. Nelson. Miss Margaret N. Wilber, now teaching at the Knox School, St. James, L. I., has been appointed master of classical studies. She will teach Latin and ancient history in the integrated humanities program offered by the academy.

Ulster Academy will hold an open house for interested families and the public at the academy's facilities, the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing, 105 Mary's Avenue, Kingston, at 8 p.m. Friday, March 29. The open house will provide an opportunity for prospective students and their families to tour the school and meet the headmaster and members of the faculty. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Wilber, a native of Princeton, N. J., is a graduate of Miss Fine's School, now in history with secondary study

in Latin and Classical Archaeology.

She took a master's degree in history at the University of Michigan, became interested in Middle Eastern studies and took up the study of Arabic, which she has pursued for three years. In the summer of 1956 she studied at the University of Cairo in Egypt. In response to the National Advisory Commission Report on Civil Disorder, she recently cancelled summer plans for study at the Goethe Institute in West Germany and will spend the summer working for Upward Bound.

She earlier taught in special programs for crippled children, in which her skills in ceramic were of great therapeutic value. She has interested herself in all forms of art, ceramics and pottery in particular, and has worked with the students of the Knox School in this area.

Ulster Academy opens in September, offering grades seven through 10, in the Benedictine School of Nursing building. The Academy office is now at 17 Pearl Street.

France Asking Parley On Real Gold System

BRUSSELS (AP) — With three days until the Stockholm conference that seeks final accord on "paper gold" as international credit, France called today for a conference to create a monetary system ruled by real gold.

"France, however, was completely isolated," Dutch Finance Minister Hendrik Witteveen said after French Finance Minister Michel Debre argued his point at a dinner here Monday night.

Drawing Rights Not Answer

Debre told his colleagues from the Common Market countries that special drawing rights on the International Monetary Fund were not a solution to the world monetary crisis. The drawing rights are called "paper gold."

Debre said that instead, the official price of gold should be raised and a new monetary system set up with gold supreme. A conference should be convened, he declared, "to make all currencies juridically equal."

President Charles de Gaulle, whose government has left the international gold pool, hoarded gold and warred against the U.S. dollar as a reserve currency, has demanded a return to the simple gold system.

Replying to Debre Monday night, however, Italian Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo and West German Economics Minister Karl Schiller said the two-price gold market and the system of drawing rights could function quite well.

Under the two-price system, central banks back their nations' currencies with gold at $35 an ounce and the public deals in a market where the price varies with supply and demand.

In Rio de Janeiro last September France agreed with her five Common Market partners, the United States, Japan, Sweden and Canada, to cut down on the role of gold and create the drawing rights to provide ready currency for world trade.

If the drawing rights system is finally approved in Stockholm by the 10 richest non-Communist countries it could usher in a new epoch in international payments in which gold's role would diminish. Sponsors of the "paper gold" system argue that it would be easier to control than the dynamic gold market and would ensure a growth of world currency resources needed for the expansion of trade.

Heated Wrangle Due
At Stockholm a heated wrangle is expected between France, represented by Debre, and the United States represented by Treasury Secretary Henry M. Fowler. Italy and West Germany have been cast by some experts in the role of mediators.

"We still hope on Thursday evening in Stockholm to convince France of the necessity for special drawing rights," Witteveen said.

The Dutch finance minister said he felt France could not pull out of the basic agreement on drawing rights reached in Rio last fall. In Witteveen's opinion, France may go along with the system at Stockholm once she realizes she will be isolated there as well.

France may agree, he said, "but on condition that she can opt out." One big issue is the determination of the point at which a country that disapproves of drawing rights can refuse to take part in the system.

If approved, the new system is expected to come into operation next year at the earliest. The reserve fund would amount to a relatively modest $400 million the first year, but the drawing rights are intended to increase each year afterwards.

Dutchess Historic Survey to Be Topic

Mrs. Arlene Bondas, public information officer of Dutchess County Planning Department, will be guest speaker at the next regular meeting of the Rhinebeck Historical Society 8 p.m. Friday at Morton Memorial Library, Rhinecliff. Slides on Dutchess County Heritage will be shown highlighting some of the landmarks selected by the county planning department as the most significant historical and architectural landmarks in the county. A discussion of selective preservation will be included.

Mrs. Peter H. Troy is chairman of the meeting. Guests and any interested persons in the area may attend.

Hudson Valley Apples Spotlited At Special Day in Nation's Capital

It's Hudson Valley Apple Day in Washington, D. C. In celebration of the event, Capitol Hill apple fans will have an opportunity to sample products from this year's bountiful Hudson Valley apple crop in the House of Representatives Dining Room today.

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, in cooperation with the apple growers of the Hudson Valley, inaugurated "Apple Day" in 1965, to help publicize Hudson Valley apples. It is a Capitol Hill tradition for a Congressman to help his District by publicizing its product, industry or attraction.

Apples are one of the leading cash crops in the 28th District. The $15 million apple business is an important factor in the economy of the area, and Joe Resnick conceived the idea of "Apple Day" to help bring Hudson Valley apples to the attention of the entire country.

This year, Apple Day has blossomed into a full-fledged apple industry promotion, with a complete program of festivities scheduled in celebration. This is being done with the cooperation of the Mid-Hudson Grower's Cooperative, the Dutchess Harvester's Cooperative and the Mid-Ulster Grower's Cooperative—all of whom supply the apples—and the National Apple Institute and the New York and New England Apple Institute.

A delegation of Hudson Valley apple growers, who will be in Washington for Apple Day, will present the third annual Good Apple Award to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

on the labor outlook for the coming year. Visitors in the House of Representatives Dining Room will be able to sample Hudson Valley apples and cider, courtesy of the Mid-Hudson Growers. Cartons of apples are being sent to the President, the Vice President, Cabinet officers and some of the key Government Agency officials.

Washington newspapers have been running apple recipes in their food sections, in honor of the event, and Congressman Resnick has sent every Congressman a sample of delicious Hudson Valley apples. "I don't think that anybody who is anybody in Washington has not sampled our wonderful Hudson Valley apples," Congressman Resnick said.

Missing Boy Is Found, Spent Night in Woods

A 10-year old Sullivan County boy, who took a stroll in the woods with his collie dog yesterday afternoon "walked out of a swampy forest preserve" about 7:30 this morning according to Ferndale State Police.

Terrence Moriarity, son of Mrs. Kathleen Moriarity of Forrestburg, became the object of a search by both police and the State Conservation Department at about 10 last night when he failed to return home.

The boy, who was dressed comfortably in heavy clothing and boots, was reported "in good spirits" when he emerged from the forest located just south of Monticello on Rt. 42 near the Hartwood Club.

Forest Ranger Charles O'Neil reported that the boy apparently heard the noise of sirens and searchers last night but failed to respond.

According to William Sussdorf of the New York State Conservation Department at New Paltz, the boy was well acquainted with the area terrain and was not in any apparent danger.

Among the 100 police, forest rangers and conservation officers assigned to the search operation were: O'Neil, Kenneth Denk, Herbert Letke Jr., Anthony Lenkiewicz and Burton Lindsley. District Director of the New York State Conservation Department, Sidney Bascomb was also reported on the scene.

The growers will be accompanied by the 1968 Hudson Valley Apple Queen Christine Slauson of Hudson.

In past years, "The Good Apple Award" has been presented to Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

Grower's Luncheon

The growers will attend a luncheon given in their honor by Congressman Resnick. They will hear Stanley Knebel, Chief of the Division of Research and Wage Activities of the Office of Farm Labor Services speak

Hayes Announcement Insures Boys Club Game

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Sports Editor)

Until Elvin Hayes made his announcement in Houston, Texas Monday there was reasonable doubt whether the Houston All-America and his Stars of Texas would appear in Kingston on April 1 for the Boys Club exhibition against the College All Stars.

Boys Club director John Holoduk and others concerned with the promotion are breathing much easier today. A load has been lifted off their financial backs.

Hayes told the Associated Press yesterday that he will not compete for a spot on the Olympic basketball team because he needs money and he needs to work on his game to "make a pro team."

Prior to Monday's startling news out of Houston, the ECAC (Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Association) had been aware of the Hayes barnstorm tour and had the matter under study.

All Academic Now

Asa Bushnell, guiding light of the ECA, said a decision on Hayes' status with respect to the Olympics would be forthcoming. The move by the Houston scoring wizard now renders all this speculation academic.

He said it was his own decision and that he had not been contacted by anyone who had proposed that Negro athletes boycott the Olympics.

"It's not color or anything like that," said Hayes, college basketball's player of the year. "It's my own decision. I hope the public can understand my problem."

Meanwhile, two professional teams have announced they will try to sign the Houston Cougar star who is college basketball's second highest scorer in history.

Rockets Win Toss

The San Diego Rockets won the coin toss Monday for the first draft choice in the National Basketball Association and immediately announced they would try to sign the 6-8 star.

The Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball League also say they have the negotiation rights for Hayes although the ABA draft will not be until April 8. Hayes says he favors the NBA and for the first time has set a definite price tag on himself. He said he will ask for $300,000 over three years.

"All my life I have wanted to play against the best," he said. "In order to play against the best I want to go into the NBA."

Hayes made his decision not to participate in the Olympic trials upon returning Sunday from Los Angeles where the top ranked Cougars had their 31-0 record spoiled in losses to UCLA and Ohio State in the NCAA semi-finals and third place games.

"I need the money that a pro contract would bring me and I need it pretty fast," he said. "I have a wife and a child to support and basketball is the way I can support them best."

Thomas, Brown Pace Aero Lake Victory

Aero Lake Airport, led by Charlie Brown and Ron Thomas, survived a shaky first opening minutes last night, but came on quickly to hand IBEW a 77-64 quarter-final round defeat in the Hudson Valley Basketball Tournament at Poughkeepsie.

The tourney, the 25th edition sponsored by the Poughkeepsie YMCA, now finds Aero Lake in the semi-finals against the other winner last night, Guernsey's Realtors of Poughkeepsie. Guernsey's dumped Wiley's Flying Aces in a close game, 73-70.

IBEW started out like a house on fire, jumping out to a 5-1 lead as the Airmen had trouble getting untracked.

Brown, the hot-shooting guard for the Airmen, was bottled effectively by the IBEW team. With Brown stopped, IBEW moved in front, only to see that lead disappear in less than two minutes.

Ron Thomas led the surge, bringing the Airmen up to 7-6 before taking the lead at 8-7 with 2:29 into the game.

Score at 9-8

George Bruns, a former All-Met Conference player at Manhattan College, sank a basket to put the Electricians on top, 9-8. Aero Lake's John Stevens scored on a layup right after that and A-L was never headed.

With Brown and Thomas dumping in 18 apiece, the Airmen kept the lead at roughly 10-points until five minutes remained in the game. A late IBEW surge brought the score to 58-53, but the Airmen regained control and quickly pushed the lead back to 10, 63-53.

IBEW rallied again, cutting the margin once more to five, 63-58, with 3:53 remaining. Aero Lake, with Thomas and Joe Klonowski controlling the backboards, put on a push to make the final buzze 13, 77-64.

In the nightcap, Guernsey's moved out by 11, 39-28, early in the second quarter. But by half-time, the Realtors held only a first 40 seconds of the second half, the score was knotted at 40-40.

Pull Away 46-40

Guernsey's pulled away to a 46-40 lead, keeping the margin at six until the closing minutes. With 2:17 left, the score read Guernsey's 65, Wiley's 64. A foul by Gary, the score read Guernsey's 65, Wiley's 64. A foul by Gary Mendez and a bucket by Brian Wood pushed it to 68-64 with 1:44 left. The closest Wiley's could come after that was two, 73-70 with six seconds left. Ed Shuster, All-SUNYAC this season at New Paltz State, hit a layup.

Aero Lake sank 48.6 per cent of its shots, hitting 33 of 68 for the game. It was the strong second half, when it hit 15 of 30, that proved the most damaging to IBEW.

Leading the team was Stevens 4-6 for 8-67 and Bob Bonder (75%). Of the starters, Thomas banged in 7-of-14 for a 57.1% mark. Brown was held to 8-or-17 for 47%.

Meet in Semis

The teams will square off in the semi-finals of the Hudson Valley tourney one week from today at the IBM Country Club in Poughkeepsie.

The other four quarter-finalists in the Hudson Valley tourney have it tomorrow night.

The contests pit Stewart Air Force Base, the 1st Air Force tourney champs, against Fello's Pipers of Marlboro, victors of the Marlboro Basketball Tournament.

Tipoff time is 7:15 at Dutchess Community College, and will be followed by the DCC All-Stars vs. Pine Plains Bombardiers.

Listed on the Bombardiers roster are Joe Uhl of Kingston, York Lares, formerly of the Philadelphia and San Francisco Warriors, Bill Telsky, a former All-America and Tom Hemans and Bill Green, well-known Eastern Basketball League players.

Archer's Quandary: Cut Golf or Income

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Lanky George Archer says he would like to cut down on his golfing trips. But he admits he hates to stay home and miss out on all that money offered on the pro tour.

"I should take a week off after every four or five tournaments," the new champion of the Pensacola Open said after his closing 63 gave him a $16,000 payoff Monday. "But when I sit around home for a couple of weeks I get to thinking about the money I'm not making."

Archer almost passed up the Pensacola tournament, but his wife, Donna, talked him into playing.

"I had a premonition that he might win," said Mrs. Archer. "Besides, we had flown to Florida and I didn't want us to fly back after just one tournament."

Archer almost dropped out in the first round when he became sick to his stomach while playing, but he shot a 66 and decided to keep going. He added rounds of 68 and 69 before his closing burst gave him the title with a 72-hole total of 268, 20 strokes under par and the lowest total on the tour this year.

ship with a blazing finish which he needed to edge veteran Dave Marr and young Tony Jacklin of Britain by a shot.

Archer, who trailed both of the other contenders most of the round, shot in front with a closing string of birdies. He sank birdie putts of five, eight and five feet on the last three holes. Marr finished with a 65 to tie Jacklin, who turned in a 66. They won $7,800 each for their 269 totals. Jacklin, making his best showing ever, reportedly is the first English golfer to finish as high as second on the American tour.

Twin Double Nets Better $21 Grand

CHARLES TOWN, W.Va. (AP) — An unidentified bettor won $21,012 Monday night for successfully picking the twin double at Charles Town Race Course.

The 7-6-10-2 combination was completed in the eighth race when Ragalu came home a $19 winner.

Chrissy had a $8.60 payoff in the fifth, Rollin Jean an $18.60 return in the sixth and Rosy Tune, $40.40, in the seventh race.

Nordics to Honor Lt. Ed Williams

Rosendale Nordic Ski Club will honor Lt. Ed (Gus) Williams of Rosendale at its annual banquet Saturday night at Williams Lake Hotel.

Williams, son of Walter Williams, the proprietor of Williams Lake, was a member of the 1968 U.S. Olympic Biathlon squad and has just returned from Grenoble, France and post-Olympic races in Scandinavia.

He will relate his experiences in the quadrennial sports spectacle and also give an account of his participation in the famous Swedish Vasa Loppet, a 54-mile endurance test, and the world famous Holmenkollen at Oslo, Norway where he took part in the 50-kilometer race.

The Nordics will also install new officers for the coming year. They are: Mrs. Sylvia Ricci, High Falls, president; Walter Williams, Rosendale, vice president; Mrs. Marge Owens, recording secretary; Mrs. Chris Rand, Rosendale, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Stone Ridge, treasurer.

Public is invited but reservations are necessary.

Sly Yankee Cops Yonkers Feature

Vernon Dancer drove Sly Yankee, an 8-year-old son of Tar Heel, to an easy length victory over favored Highland Raider and won the $4,000 pace at Yonkers Racelway Monday night.

The mile contest, clocked in 2:04, held top billing in the evening's harness racing in New York State.

Sly Yankee took command in the stretch, scored his first win in two outings and returned mutuals of $8. Barkley Square finished third.

The $1,500 pace at Batavia Towns was won by 7-year-old Clevon Ina in 2:11. Madson Dine was a head back, trailed by Annes Paradise. Clevon Ina returned $15.80.

Orioles Hurlers Make Like Banner Year 1966

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's only baseball spring training, but Baltimore pitchers are bringing back 1966 memories, erasing 1967 nightmares and raising 1968 hopes.

Oriole hurlers extended their shutout string to 23 innings Monday before the Chicago White Sox scored once, not enough as Baltimore beat the Sox 2-1 for its fourth straight victory.

Tom Phoebus, following a pair of two-hit shutouts, had Chicago blanked for four innings before Ken Berry homered for a 1-1 tie. But Phoebus, rookie Roger Nelson and Brad Dillman stopped the Sox the rest of the way, and two errors by Chicago pitcher Gary Peters on a sacrifice bunt set up Mark Belanger's winning sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Phoebus, Stu Miller, who pitched one shutout inning Friday, and Eddie Watt are the only pitchers involved in the whitewash string that remain from the 1966 staff that pitched Baltimore to the pennant and world series championship.

During last year's disappointing sixth place finish when sore arms and injuries hampered the hurlers, the Orioles came up with many new faces. They include Nelson, Dillman, Jim Horan, Gene Brabender, John O'Donoghue and Pete Richert, the other weekend shutout pitchers.

Horton Hurt Again

At the same time Detroit's pennant hopes suffered a blow when slugger Willie Horton bruised a shoulder tendon in a 5-1 loss to Atlanta as Tito Francona homered and later scored the winning run.

Horton, injured while making a tumbling catch in left field, is expected to be out a week as injuries that kept him out of about 50 games last year continued to plague him.

California lost pitcher Jim McGlothlin in the second inning with a muscle spasm in his back, but Chuck Hinton's bat-powered the Angels to a 9-3 victory over San Francisco. Hinton drove in six runs with three hits.

Houston had its eight-game winning streak snapped when Philadelphia broke a 2-2 tie with eight runs in the last three innings for an 8-2 triumph as Grant Jackson and rookie Larry Colton combined on a three-hit effort.

Nye Effective

Rich Nye, the Chicago Cubs' pitching discovery in their 1967 surprise finish, held Cleveland to six hits and no walks in eight innings in a 7-2 victory.

Joe Rudi bounced a hit over shortstop Gene Alley's head in the seventh inning and Oakland beat Pittsburgh 4-3.

Bob Bailey used more power to pull Los Angeles past the New York Yankees 4-1 as he slugged a triple and a homer. St. Louis and Minnesota won a pair of extra inning games. The Cardinals nudged Cincinnati 7-6 on Floyd Wicker's winning hit in the 10th after the Cardinals tied in the ninth on Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer.

Ashe Reserves Decision On Boycotting Olympics

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Ashe, the United States' first Negro Davis Cup tennis player, might add his voice to the civil rights fight, but it won't be a violent one.

"I could say today that I'm going to blow up the Madison Square Garden, and tomorrow I'd wake up in Leavenworth," Ashe said today. "I'm in the Army—everything I do has to be within the confines of the Army."

The rangy UCLA graduate from Richmond, Va., a first lieutenant in the data processing office at West Point, admitted that he is considering what role he should play in he black man's battle for equality.

"I am in sympathy with those countries boycotting the Olympics because of the admission of South Africa," he said. "I feel I should boycott the Davis Cup if the South Africans compete."

"But my case is different. My voice would be just a single one, and I doubt it would have much impact.

"Of course, if others felt the way I did—the South Americans, Indians and Latins with dark skin—we might swing some weight."

Ashe made his debut in the Garden Challenge Cup International Tennis Tournament Monday by beating Boro Jovanovic of Yugoslavia 6-4, 6-2.

He was joined in the second round by Chuck McKinley, paunchy ex-Davis Cupper who upset Australian champion Bill Bowrey 6-1, 6-3; Clark Graebner, a Davis Cup squad member from New York, winner over Ray Ruffels of Australia 9-7, 4-6, 6-3; and Herbert FitzGibbon of Garden City, N.Y., winner over Frank Froehling III of New York, 7-5, 10-8.

The tournament's two top-seeded stars, Roy Emerson of Australia and Manuel Santana of Spain, also were among the 16 men to win opening matches on the rubberized courts at Madison Square Garden.

Olympic Funds Missing in Texas

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee has asked the Dallas, Tex., district attorney to look into the disappearance of some $72,000 collected for the Olympic fund. The committee has denied, however, that a scandal of nationwide proportions is involved.

In Dallas, it was reported that the grand jury heard five charges of embezzlement growing out of local handling of funds. Arthur Lentz, executive director of the USOC, said Monday his office had asked the Dallas authorities to look into the case after his office received anonymous telephone tips two weeks ago of mismanagement of funds.

Hail, Philadelphia Lawyer!

Eligibility Rules or Mumbo-Jumbo...?

What about the eligibility of high school and college players competing in the popular post-season basketball tournaments?

The questions came about Sunday night when the Donnie Vans team of Kingston forfeited their contest against the Arlington Friars, a first round game in the Kingston Basketball Tournament.

The Donnie Vans team is composed entirely of high school basketball players. Their eligibility was questioned for further competition, so the players decided to forfeit, rather than risk losing the eligibility.

According to John Archer, Executive Secretary of the NYSPHSAA, the governing body of high school sports in the state, all high school athletes, competing in post-season and/or post-scheduled tournaments, still remain eligible as long as they are not paid for competing.

The NYSPHSAA differentiates post-season and post-schedule. The winter sports season officially ends March 31. A school's schedule may end before that date, but all contests participated in become post-schedule if played before April 1. A high school, providing it has not played its maximum of 18 regular scheduled games, may schedule contests until that April 1 deadline. The high school may compete in post season tournaments after that date.

Re Post-Season Games
The post-season or post-schedule games will not affect a high school athlete's eligibility as far as his high school career is concerned. The only factor that will make a scholastic player ineligible is a change in his amateur status.

Should any amateur be paid beyond the expenses he puts out of pocket, then he is considered a professional athlete, making him ineligible for any high school or college sport.

The NYSPHSAA discourages high school athletes and teams from competing on an amateur basis against collegiate or professional athletes. No high school team, using the high school designation, may compete against a collegiate or professional team, except in the case of exhibitions for benefits or entertainment.

The ruling, however, does not apply against the individual athlete, only if he is playing without any high school team's affiliation—and if the team he is playing against is also not listed under a pro team's name.

For collegians, both the ECAC and NCAA do not allow eligible athletes to compete in post-season play, except for tournaments scheduled by those ruling bodies.

The ECAC and NCAA also state that any player "is ineligible if he plays in any sport with or against players who are active members of professional teams."

Ban Out of Season
Another NCAA and ECAC rule is that no player with eligibility remaining is allowed to compete in a sport, once his team's season is ended. No summer basketball or winter baseball, for example, is allowed.

According to George Schiebler of the ECAC, "Any ECAC athlete, with eligibility in any sport, may not participate in a non-ECAC sanctioned or non-scheduled event." This ruling, according to him, also applies to NCAA entered athletes and sports.

Schiebler, however, was uncertain about the NAIA, another ruling body of amateur athletes. He believed that the NAIA did not have rules like this.

To further complicate this, the ECAC and NCAA rules interpret competition against a pro, as competing in any sport, whether the pro is a pro in that sport or any other sport.

An example of this would be: Take a collegiate baseball player. He signs a pro contract before he graduates and remains in school. He competes in school intramural basketball tournament. All players seeing action in that tournament are therefore declared ineligible for NCAA or ECAC athletics regardless of the sport.

The professional does not have to be paid to play the sport to make all the others ineligible. Once his amateur status is gone, all athletes in that tourney are no longer eligible for NCAA or ECAC.

The rulings are tricky, and may wind up being costly to the local athletes. The high school players saved themselves from trouble, but others players involved did not forfeit—and may very well find themselves in trouble they did not bargain for.

The news of the death of a horse, unless it be a Man O War or a Citation scarcely ever attracts a ripple of attention.

Not so in Ulster County where the recent deaths of two beloved show horses has saddened the area horse show world.

Lew McMahon of Rifton, who is widely known in horse show circles, has penned poignant tribute to the two gallant veterans who recently succumbed to old age.

The two were Little Girl, a gray mare owned and shown for many years by Mrs. Paul DeLisio of Woodstock, the former Susie Jurgenson, and Smokey, a black gelding owned and shown by Ernest Marl of Cragmoor.

"They will never again hear the applause of the crowd," writes McMahon. "It would be impossible to count the number of people who were thrilled over the years by these two fine animals. For the last 15 years these two great horses worked their hearts out for their fine owners."

"They worked almost as one, not as just rider and a horse," McMahon adds. "It seems like such a short time ago that a little girl on a little gray mare had more than 1500 persons at the Dutchess County Fair Horse Show standing and applauding their every move. The year was 1957, the little girl was Susie, now the mother of two little cowboys and the horse was Little Girl."

"SMOKEY AND ERNIE Marl were a legend among the Hudson valley horse show crowd, like a Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig combination," McMahon goes on. "They were the best in the business. When a horse gives its rider all it can . . . and then when asked for more always seems to have that little extra . . . it's a true champion. Such a horse was Smokey."

"In behalf of the many horse show fans in this area, I would like to say to Mrs. DeLisio and Mr. Marl, horses do go to heaven," McMahon concludes.

Dave DeBusschere's big play—which almost backfired—ignited a Detroit last-ditch drive Monday that gave the Pistons an even break in their National Basketball Association playoff with the Boston Celtics.

DeBusschere, who scored 23 points in the 126-116 Pistons' victory, made his move with 2:46 to play and Detroit leading 114-112.

He stole an errant Boston pass and drove in all alone toward the basket and dunked the ball—and missed.

Teammate Eddie Miles, though, racing down court, snared the rebound and dropped it in for a 116-112 Pistons edge. Detroit outscored the Celtics 8-4 the rest of the way to tie the best-of-7 Eastern Division series at one game apiece.

In Western Division playoff action in Los Angeles, the Lakers took a 2-0 lead with an 111-106 victory over Chicago.

Dallas topped Houston 115-97 and Pittsburgh blasted Indiana 146-127 in American Basketball Association playoff contests.

Dave Bing topped Detroit with 24 points and five other Pistons were in double figures. Sam Jones led the Celtics with 18 points and three Boston players, including player-coach Bill Russell fouled out. The others were Tom Sanders and Bailey Howell.

The third game of the series will be played in Boston Wednesday night.

The Lakers, who led all the way until a furious Bulls surge tied the score at 100-all with 3:33 to play, got clutch baskets from Jerry West and Archie Clark to gain the triumph.

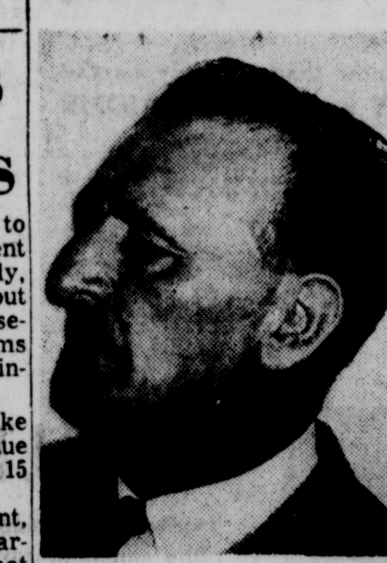

West, who finished with a game-high 35 points, got a three-point play to put the Lakers up 109-104 and ice their second straight victory in the best-of-7 series.

Chicago's Flynn Robinson with 32 points and Keith Erickson with 18 led the Bulls rally. Baylor finished with 26 points and 16 rebounds and Clark had 15 points.

The third game in the series shifts to Chicago Wednesday night and all Bulls Coach Johnny Kerr said was: "We're coming closer but we took a couple of bad shots toward the end. Overall we're playing better."

Tonight's playoff action has only one game, St. Louis at San Francisco, in the best-of-7 Western Division series, which is tied at 1-1. Wednesday New York plays at Philadelphia in the East. Each club has won one game.

The news of the death of a horse, unless it be a Man O War or a Citation scarcely ever attracts a ripple of attention.

Not so in Ulster County where the recent deaths of two beloved show horses has saddened the area horse show world.

Lew McMahon of Rifton, who is widely known in horse show circles, has penned poignant tribute to the two gallant veterans who recently succumbed to old age. The two were Little Girl, a gray mare owned and shown for many years by Mrs. Paul DeLisio of Woodstock, the former Susie Jurgenson, and Smokey, a black gelding owned and shown by Ernest Marl of Cragmoor.

"They will never again hear the applause of the crowd," writes McMahon. "It would be impossible to count the number of people who were thrilled over the years by these two fine animals. For the last 15 years these two great horses worked their hearts out for their fine owners."

"They worked almost as one, not as just rider and a horse," McMahon adds. "It seems like such a short time ago that a little girl on a little gray mare had more than 1500 persons at the Dutchess County Fair Horse Show standing and applauding their every move. The year was 1957, the little girl was Susie, now the mother of two little cowboys and the horse was Little Girl."

"SMOKEY AND ERNIE Marl were a legend among the Hudson valley horse show crowd, like a Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig combination," McMahon goes on. "They were the best in the business. When a horse gives its rider all it can ... and then when asked for more always seems to have that little extra ... it's a true champion. Such a horse was Smokey."

"In behalf of the many horse show fans in this area, I would like to say to Mrs. DeLisio and Mr. Marl, horses do go to heaven," McMahon concludes.

We never considered ourselves a horse show buff but the Woodstock Riding Club's riding ring is just a few paces below our Ohayo Mountain residence. But we had the pleasure of seeing Smokey and Little Girl in action many times. We commend Lew McMahon for his fine tribute to these noble steeds.

Driver Strike Looms At Harness Tracks

The possibility of a strike by drivers and owners at the eight harness racetracks in the state looms more and more a reality. The threat of strikes is hanging directly over the head of the six upstate tracks, and chances are they might be closed this season.

What looked like a chance to avert the strike, an amendment to a bill before the Assembly, was voted down yesterday—but the bill was passed, and horsemen and drivers are up in arms over the bill's wording and intent.

The bill increases the take from the pari-mutuel revenue from the current figure of 15 per cent to 16 per cent.

Of that additional 1 per cent, the state will take half, earmark the other half for what the drivers' attorney, F. Lee Bailey, claimed was "discrimination."

The bill covers both thoroughbred and harness racing in the state. For the thoroughbred tracks, the extra half-per cent was specifically designated to go for increased purses; something the state agreed to in ending the horsemen's boycott at Aqueduct last year.

IN ULSTER COUNTY

NEWS COVERAGE!...

... And

The Kingston Daily Freeman MAKES THE DIFFERENCE!

MORE NEWS...MORE PICTURES

More and More Ulster County Residents are discovering, in order to keep fully informed, subscribing to THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN is a must. The pages of THE FREEMAN are alive with the latest local, national, and international news. All this is supplemented by interesting features and columns, covering diversified subjects from financing to cooking.

Smart shoppers know they can save time and money by checking the varied advertisements in THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN before going shopping. THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN classified pages, too, offer many time-saving opportunities and services.

Possibly all this can be summed up in one word "ACCEPTANCE." THE FREEMAN readers know they can rely on the newspaper with READABILITY... Look at THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN TODAY and then order HOME DELIVERY.

YOU WILL ENJOY "THE FREEMAN", the ONE newspaper that SERVES "ULSTER COUNTY COMMUNITIES."

Added Features to the Freeman:

Drew Pearson — Washington Columnist

... a man whose insatiable determination for the truth in news and whose relentless and fearless crusading against political, social, military, commercial and legislative privilege has made him both hated and feared. A broadcaster, reporter, world-traveler, ex-school teacher and co-author of several books, Drew Pearson's column digs through Washington gobbledegook and brings the readers of The Daily Freeman hard-hitting inside stories six days a week.

HENRY J. TAYLOR

The famed economist, reporter, radio commentator, author and former U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland (1957-61) gives his expertly informed comments on the major political and economic developments, here and abroad, three times a week.

Dear Abby

Trust Makes a Marriage

(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for two years and have two adorable babies. Right now he is away in the army. He's been gone five months and this is the first time we have ever been separated.

So far I have received 56 letters from him and in each one he tells me how much he loves me, and misses me. And he never fails to say that he is being TRUE to me.

I believe him, Abby, but when I tell this to the other wives they laugh at me and say that all men are alike and when they aren't with the one they love, they love the one they're with. This hurts me very much.

I would like your honest opinion, Abby. Are all men alike?

WORRIED: No. All men are no more alike than all women are. You have proof of that. The "other wives" don't think the same as you, and obviously their husbands haven't inspired the confidence and trust that yours has. But, to peddle your good luck, dear. Some people don't like to hear about it.

DEAR ABBY: My son Rick is not yet 19. A year ago Rick wouldn't even look at a girl. Last August he started seeing a 17-year-old girl day and night. At Christmastime he gave her a small diamond, but he said they weren't going to get married for "a long time yet"—which was a relief to me because I thought they were both too young.

Well, like a bolt out of the blue, Rick decides he wants to get married now. He asked me to sign for him and I refused. He doesn't have a steady job. Besides, he's got the army breathing down his neck. Now Rick and I aren't speaking. I don't like being on the outs with my own son, Abby. We've always had such a good relationship. What do you advise me to do?

UPSET MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: I advise you to start talking to Rick, and encourage him to talk to you. There may be a very good reason why Rick wants to marry this girl in such a hurry.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please set me straight on a problem that has me worried.

Could calling a little five-year-old boy "Mary" (just to tease him) leave any lasting emotional scars in later years? I'm afraid it might.

My husband calls our little boy "Harry" when he wants to shame him into acting more like a "little man." This hurts the boy so much he goes to his room and cries.

My husband tells me that I have no "sense of humor," but I can't see anything funny about this kind of teasing, can you?

MRS. B.: No. Your husband's sense of humor is out of joint. Tell him to think of a more humane way to make a "little man" of his son.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CURIOUS": While a deficiency of physical armor is no fair measure of a husband's true love, devotion or fidelity, neither is excessive physical armor proof of it. And that goes double for wives.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 6700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOK, LET, "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 6700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

Horoscope

By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Wednesday, March 27, 1968

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Plans may be upset. Be willing to change, to rebuild. Concentrate on future rather than brooding about past. Be independent. Self-reliance is key to greater success.

TARUS (April 20-May 20): Friend who appears eccentric may be troubled by personal dilemma. Be a good listener. No day to quarrel over trifles. Stress understanding, sympathy and good will.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight versatility. Those in authority are concerned with your ability to adapt to changing conditions. Demonstrate that ability. Sense of humor helps relieve tension.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Feeling of restriction is but temporary. Know this. Act accordingly. Avoid unnecessary journeys. You will not find answers by running away. Steer clear of argument with relative.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Don't fight city hall. Means you gain more through diplomacy than by utilizing rash methods. Money question is resolved if communication lines are open. Applies to mate, partner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Plans are discussed which relate to you in legal or partnership sense. Family residence are affected. Base decisions on careful analysis, not impulse.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get the most from efforts. Wasted motions can be eliminated. Takes extra effort—but you can achieve goal. Give special attention to diet, work methods.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your ability to persuade members of opposite sex is emphasized. You can get what you want today. Key is salesmanship. What you sell is prospect of pleasure. Know this. Act accordingly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Shake off lethargy. Family responsibility and other pressures can be handled. Key is to hold your ground. Don't panic at first sign of rebellion. Hold reins in tight grip.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some close to you, including neighbors and relatives, appear to work at cross purposes. Don't feel you must make explanations. Do your best—let others fight their own battles.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your possessions could be in danger. Take no unnecessary risks. Conditions subject to abrupt change. Consult financial expert before making large expenditures. Take it easy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Cycle high, but mate or partner displays definite sign of restlessness. Status quo is shaken—you may have to consider new approach. Avoid legal entanglements.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are an individual others seek in time of trouble, crisis. You often are better at helping others than aiding yourself. Year favors completing rather than initiating major projects.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Lunar position is favorable for fishing. News features reorganization of major groups, including political.

In "Alice in Wonderland" Humpty Dumpty gives a dissertation on the use of words and says: "When you use a word, make sure that you let it know that you are its master." We can say the same thing about point count. Use it, but make sure that you are master and it is your servant.

North was one of those players who treated point count as master rather than servant. He had no problem when his partner went to three hearts. After all, he had nine high card points plus one point for the doubleton diamond. Ten points was a maximum raise, so the four heart bid was automatic.

So was the one trick set. West held the first trick with 10 of clubs. East won the second club lead and cashed his ace of diamonds. West played the deuce of diamonds to show no interest in a diamond continuation, so East led a third club and West's queen of hearts became the setting trick.

South suggested that North should have marked his king of clubs down from three points to no points and passed three hearts. South was right as a man could possibly be, but this made no impression on North.

He stood by his 10 points and claimed that South's three heart bid was the sole cause of the minus score. He proceeded one step further and pointed out that if South had passed over three clubs, he, North, could have doubled and set East three tricks.

We hate to have to agree with this North in any respect, but we must admit that his analysis was partially correct. East would have gone down three tricks at three clubs, but we doubt if North would have found a double. In any event, South was fully justified in going to three hearts. Some optimists might even have jumped to four with his hand.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The rings of the planet Saturn are among the flattest things in nature when their depth is considered in proportion to their width, according to The World Almanac. Diameter of the ring system, including the planet itself, is 170,000 miles but the depth from top to bottom is estimated to be no more than 10 miles. When the rings are presented to the earth edge-on, they seem to disappear since nothing 10 miles wide can be seen at a distance of nearly 900 million miles.

Dear Abby

Trust Makes a Marriage

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for two years and have two adorable babies. Right now he is away in the army. He's been gone five months and this is the first time we have ever been separated.

So far I have received 56 letters from him and in each one he tells me how much he loves me, and misses me. And he never fails to say that he is being TRUE to me.

I believe him, Abby, but when I tell this to the other wives they laugh at me and say that all men are alike and when they aren't with the one they love, they love the one they're with. This hurts me very much.

I would like your honest opinion, Abby. Are all men alike? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: No, All men are no more alike than all women are. You have proof of that. The "other wives" don't think the same as you, and obviously their husbands haven't inspired the confidence and trust that yours has. But, soft peddle your good luck, dear. Some people don't like to hear about it.

DEAR ABBY: My son Rick is not yet 19. A year ago Rick wouldn't even look at a girl. Last August he started seeing a 17-year-old girl day and night. At Christmastime he gave her a small diamond, but he said they weren't going to get married for "a long time yet"—which was a relief to me because I thought they were both too young.

Well, like a bolt out of the blue, Rick decides he wants to get married now. He asked me to sign for him and I refused. He doesn't have a steady job. Besides, he's got the army breathing down his neck. Now Rick and I aren't speaking. I don't like being on the outs with my own son, Abby. We've always had such a good relationship. What do you advise me to do?

UPSET MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: I advise you to start talking to Rick, and encourage him to talk to you. There may be a very good reason why Rick wants to marry this girl in such a hurry. . . . DEAR ABBY: Will you please set me straight on a problem that has me worried. Could calling a little five-year-old boy "Mary" (just to tease him) leave any lasting emotional scars in later years? I'm afraid it might.

My husband calls our little boy "Mary" when he wants to shame him into acting more like a "little man." This hurts the boy so much he goes to his room and cries. My husband tells me that I have no "sense of humor," but I can't see anything funny about this kind of teasing, can you?

MRS. B.: DEAR MRS. B.: No, Your husband's sense of humor is out of joint. Tell him to think of a more humane way to make a "little man" of his son.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CURIOUS": While a deficiency of physical ardor is no fair measure of a husband's true love, devotion or fidelity, neither is excessive physical ardor proof of it. And that goes double for wives.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOK, LET, "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

Point Count Not Absolute

North 26
South 26

Pass 2 3 4 5
Pass 4 5 6 7
Opening lead—4 10

In "Alice in Wonderland" Humpty Dumpty gives a dissertation on the use of words and says, "When you use a word, make sure that you let it know that you are its master. We can say the same thing about point count. Use it, but make sure that you are master and it is your servant."

North was one of those players who treated point count as master rather than servant. He had no problem when his partner went to three hearts. After all, he had nine high card points plus one point for the doubleton diamond. Ten points was a maximum raise, so the four heart bid was automatic.

So was the one trick set. West held the first trick with 10 of clubs. East won the second club lead and cashed his ace of diamonds. West played the deuce of diamonds to show no interest in a diamond continuation, so East led a third club and West's queen of hearts became the setting trick.

South suggested that North should have marked his king of clubs down from three points to no points and passed three hearts. South was right as a man could possibly be, but this made no impression on North. He stood by his 10 points and claimed that South's three heart bid was the sole cause of the minus score. He proceeded one step further and pointed out that if South had passed over three clubs, he, North, could have doubled and set East three tricks.

We hate to have to agree with this North in any respect, but we must admit that his analysis was partially correct. East would have gone down three tricks at three clubs, but we doubt if North would have found a double. In any event, South was fully justified in going to three hearts. Some optimists might even have jumped to four with his hand.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The rings of the planet Saturn are among the flattest things in nature when their depth is considered in proportion to their width, according to The World Almanac. Diameter of the ring system, including the planet itself, is 170,000 miles but the depth from top to bottom is estimated to be no more than 10 miles. When the rings are presented to the earth edge-on, they seem to disappear since nothing 10 miles wide can be seen at a distance of nearly 900 million miles.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars —
("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Wednesday, March 27, 1968

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Plans may be upset. Be willing to change, to rebuild. Concentrate on future rather than brooding about past. Be independent. Self-reliance is key to greater success.

TARUS (April 20-May 20): Friend who appears eccentric may be troubled by personal dilemma. Be a good listener. No day to quarrel over trifles. Stress understanding, sympathy and good will.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight versatility. Those in authority are concerned with your ability to adapt to changing conditions. Demonstrate that ability. Sense of humor helps relieve tension.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Feeling of restriction is but temporary. Know this. Act accordingly. Avoid unnecessary journeys. You will not find answers by running away. Steer clear of argument with relative.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Don't fight city hall. Means you gain more through diplomacy than by utilizing rash methods. Money question is resolved if communication lines are open. Applies to mate, partner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Plans are discussed which relate to you in legal or partnership sense. Family residence are affected. Base decisions on careful analysis, not impulse.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get the most from efforts. Wasted motions can be eliminated. Takes extra effort—but you can achieve goal. Give special attention to diet, work methods.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your ability to persuade members of opposite sex is emphasized. You can get what you want today. Key is salesman.

'Kate' Eye-Filling Treat

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Transition of "Kiss Me, Kate" from stage to television did not help the plot much, but Cole Porter's witty lyrics and catchy tunes have stood up well over the years.

The 90-minute adaptation was presented Monday night on ABC, and was an eye-filling treat, with stunning sets and gay, colorful costumes.

The problem for television was the play-within-a-play device, moving back and forth between musical comedy and Shakespeare.

Bob Best Singing
Robert Goulet in hose and doublet and wearing crepe mustaches and Van Dyke beard, washbuckled around in his character of suitor and in one out-of-place flashback made a valiant effort at some broad comedy. As usual, he seemed most comfortable when he was singing.

Carol Lawrence, in her dual role of divorced wife of the star and Kate of the inner play, sang nicely and danced beautifully.

While she played out the shrew scenes enthusiastically, she was not particularly convincing.

Michael Cullin, costar of last season's "Occasional Wife" series, revealed some impressive song-and-dance talents when he was teamed with Jessica Walter as the second pair of star-crossed lovers. As a matter of fact, one of the disappointments of the show was the scarcity of dance numbers when there were dancers of the stature of Miss Lawrence and Callan around.

Miss Walter, as the funny, naive gold digger, had the meatiest woman's part in the show and two of the most amusing songs. She gave it an innocent, sing a number from their girl-next-door reading and failed to make the most of it.

Marty Ingels and Jules Munshin were cast as a pair of fumbling comedy gangsters, an old device, and not particularly amusing.

Contemporary Touches
Contemporary touches were injected in the 20-year-old book. Russell Nye was cast as an actor turned politician, and Goulet occasionally dropped some modern slang—he advised someone to keep his cool. None of these helped speed up the story's progress.

The "Tony" awards show, on NBC April 21, will honor the 1967-68 season's outstanding Broadway shows and performers and will present samples from four hits.

Paul Bellevue and the chorus of her "Hello, Dolly!" will do a production number. Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme will sing a number from their

"Golden Rainbow." Robert Goulet and David Wayne will act out a scene from their "Happy Time." And the ensemble of "How Now, Dow Jones?" will also perform.

Recommended tonight:
"Don't Count the Candles," CBS, 10-11 EST, a filmed essay on age and aging by Lord Snowdon, husband of Princess Margaret and a professional photographer, in his first television venture.

'Kate' Eye-Filling Treat

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Transition of "Kiss Me, Kate" from stage to television did not help the plot much, but Cole Porter's witty lyrics and catchy tunes have stood up well over the years.

The 90-minute adaptation was presented Monday night on ABC, and was an eye-filling treat, with stunning sets and gay, colorful costumes.

The problem for television was the play-within-a-play device, moving back and forth between musical comedy and Shakespeare.

Bob Best Singing

Robert Goulet in hose and doublet and wearing crepe mustaches and Van Dyke beard, swashbuckled around in his character of suitor and in one out-of-place flashback made a valiant effort at some broad comedy. As usual, he seemed most comfortable when he was singing.

Carol Lawrence, in her dual role of divorced wife of the star and Kate of the inner play, sang nicely and danced beautifully.

While she played out the shrew scenes enthusiastically, she was not particularly convincing.

Michael O'Neil, costar of last season's "Occasional Wife" series, revealed some impressive song-and-dance talents when he was teamed with Jessica Walter as the second pair of star-crossed lovers.

As a matter of fact, one of the disappointments of the show was the scarcity of dance numbers when there were dancers of the stature of Miss Lawrence and Callan around.

Miss Walter, as the funny, naive goldigger, had the meatiest woman's part in the show and two of the most amusing songs. She gave it an innocent, girl-next-door reading and failed to make the most of it.

Marty Ingels and Jules Munshin were cast as a pair of tumbling comedy gangsters, an old device, and not particularly amusing.

Contemporary Touches

Contemporary touches were injected in the 20-year-old book. Russell Nye was cast as an actor turned politician, and Goulet occasionally dropped some modern slang—he advised someone to keep his cool. None of these helped speed up the story's progress.

The "Tony" awards show, on NBC April 21, will honor the 1967-68 season's outstanding Broadway shows and performers and will present samples from four hits.

Pearl Bailey and the chorus of her "Hello, Dolly!" will do a production number. Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme will sing a number from their

"Golden Rainbow." Robert Goulet and David Wayne will act out a scene from their "Happy Time." And the ensemble of "How Now, Dow Jones?" will also perform.

Recommended tonight: "Don't Count the Candles," CBS, 10-11 P.M., a filmed episode on age and aging by Lord Snowdon, husband of Princess Margaret, and a professional photographer, in his first television venture.

dant say they oppose any change of U.S. strategy which would leave South Vietnam's countryside to the Viet Cong.

These views have emerged at a time of rising speculation that Gen. William C. Westmoreland's impending removal as commander in Vietnam means a basic switch in military policy is being considered.

Generally the speculation has been that the United States might benefit by abandoning Westmoreland's "search-and-destroy" operations or giving up such remote outposts as Khe Sanh.

Against Enclave Policy
Gen. Harold K. Johnson, whom Westmoreland will replace as Army chief of staff by July 2, said a U.S. fallback to defense of only select, high-population areas would give the Viet Cong "a license to hunt when and where they choose."

Marine Gen. Leonard F. Chapman said: "I certainly would not favor what is called the enclave strategy. I think that is tantamount to certain defeat."

Johnson commented in the April issue of Army Digest magazine, Chapman in an Associated Press interview.

Johnson, discussing war strategy, said U.S. efforts must continue to center on driving the enemy's larger military formations away from South Vietnam's population.

"Any change in emphasis away from search-and-destroy operations would free the enemy to operate with relative impunity around and between the peripheries of our enclaves," the four-star Army general asserted.

"In short," he said, "a withdrawal to an enclave strategy would simply give enemy main force units a license to hunt when and where they choose."

Some civilian leaders are portrayed as believing the United States would suffer fewer casualties by conducting fewer countryside search patrols or by avoiding static defensive positions in border areas where enemy forces are close to supply caches.

Battlewagon Makes Comeback

By AL EDMONDS
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The battleship USS New Jersey sails today in the second phase of a comeback that will lead eventually to Vietnam duty.

10 Years in Mothballs

Tugs stood by at Philadelphia Naval Shipyard to nudge the 45,000-ton battlewagon—nearly as long as three football fields—down to the mouth of the Delaware River where she will proceed out into the Atlantic under her own steam for three days of sea trials. The ship has been in the mothball fleet for more than 10 years.

After the trials, the New Jersey will steam back to Philadelphia where she will be recommissioned April 6. Then the battleship will put out to sea again to test fire her nine 16-inch guns.

The New Jersey will proceed to the Gulf of Tonkin, probably in early fall, where she will go on station to hurl 2,700 pound projectiles at North Vietnam's coastal cities and defenses.

The Navy believes the New Jersey's destructive guns will help ease the burgeoning loss in men and aircraft in bombing missions over North Vietnam. That was the main argument of Navy brass who campaigned for the recommissioning.

Two purposes will be served by the three days of trials, Capt. J. Edward Snyder, who served during World War II as a gunnery officer aboard the now scrapped USS Pennsylvania, his crew of 1,400 men, and shipyard personnel will tax the New Jersey almost to the limit.

The battlewagon will be brought up to its maximum speed of 31 knots and hundreds of items of equipment and machinery and electronic gear will be tested.

The trials also will give the crew, drawn largely from other ships in the Atlantic Fleet, a chance to renew skills and learn new ones. Only a few of the crew, besides Snyder, have battleship service since none of the floating fortresses has sailed in more than a decade.

Half of Normal Crew
The New Jersey will have only half the normal 2,800-man crew that took her through

BY AL EDMONDS
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The battleship USS New Jersey sails today in the second phase of a comeback that will lead eventually to Vietnam duty.

10 Years in Mothballs
Tugs stood by at Philadelphia Naval Shipyard to nudge the 45,000-ton battlewagon—nearly as long as three football fields—down to the mouth of the Delaware River where she will proceed out into the Atlantic under her own steam for three days of sea trials. The ship has been in the mothball fleet for more than 10 years.

After the trials, the New Jersey will steam back to Philadelphia where she will be recommissioned April 6. Then the battleship will put out to sea again to test fire her nine 16-inch guns.

The New Jersey will proceed to the Gulf of Tonkin, probably in early fall, where she will go on station to hurl 2,700 pound projectiles at North Vietnam's coastal cities and defenses.

The Navy believes the New Jersey's destructive guns will help ease the burgeoning loss in men and aircraft in bombing missions over North Vietnam. That was the main argument of Navy brass who campaigned for the recommissioning.

Two purposes will be served by the three days of trials.

Capt. J. Edward Snyder, who served during World War II as a gunnery officer aboard the now scrapped USS Pennsylvania, his crew of 1,400 men, and shipyard personnel will tax the New Jersey almost to the limit.

The battlewagon will be brought up to its maximum speed of 31 knots and hundreds of items of equipment and machinery and electronic gear will be tested.

The trials also will give the crew, drawn largely from other ships in the Atlantic Fleet, a chance to renew skills and learn new ones. Only a few of the crew, besides Snyder, have battleship service since none of the floating fortresses has sailed in more than a decade.

Half of Normal Crew

The New Jersey will have only half the normal 2,800-man crew that took her through

World War II and the Korean war. The smaller crew was possible because the battleship was stripped of all but her big guns and because of extensive use of sophisticated electronic equipment.

After joining the Pacific Fleet, the New Jersey's home port will be Long Beach, Calif.
